WE NOMINATE

Rex Goreleigh, an able teacher, an established artist and a refreshingly perceptive human being, whose two decades as a Princetonian have spanned "those years of decision" which have catapaulted this community into the front rank of those areas most deeply concerned with the well-being of all without regard for race, or nationality, or creed. To Goreleigh, now in his early 60's and a Princetonian since 1917, belongs a generous measure of credit for helping foster the gradual development of an atmosphere conducive to the formation of partnerships seeking to eradicate "pockets of misunderstanding."

Shortly after World War II, at the time the Borough and Township, singly and together, were working out the details of the so-called "Princeton Plan," now nationally recognized as an effective approach to the problems of school-integration in non-urban centers, Goreleigh was called from Chicago to establish the Princeton Group Arts Center. The Group Arts Program, dedicated to strengthening the creative arts in Princeton and to fostering the ideals of integration, only survived for six dollar-harassed years (1947-1953) but it did lay the groundwork for modern-day Princeton.

In 1955, the year he received the New Jersey Afro-American Newspaper Award for Superior Public Service with stress on his contributions through Princeton Group Arts, Goreleigh brought into being his own Studio-on-the-Canal. It is here along the quiet of the Delaware and Raritan Canal (approximately halfway between U.S. Route One and the "Princeton Pike"), that the Pennsylvania-born Goreleigh maintains his close associations with Princeton, including evening sketch classes, children's groups on the weekends, and gatherings of the newly-formed Princeton Art Association.

Goreleigh, recently named by Governor Hughes to the Art Committee of the Commission to Study Arts in New Jersey and one of the three judges for the Princeton Jaycees' Sixth Annual Art Exhibit in the Miss Fine's School Gymnasium, devotes his regular work-week to his teaching duties in the Occupational Therapy Department of the N. J. Neuro-psychiatric Institute at Skillman. Somehow or other, with the ease characteristic of "the professional," he often sandwiches into his daily rounds an excellent water-color "representing a refuge from pressure as well as a means of expression."

Goreleigh, whose "Migrant Series" depicting farm-workers in the Cranbury-Roosevelt-Hightstown Area has recently been exhibited in Washington, Trenton and New Brunswick, is a meticulous, conscientious artist who prefers "interpreting" to pictorial reporting. Once he had outgrown theatrical ambitions, he completed his studies in New York and Paris and perfected the "very free" techniques that have since brought favorable mention in several volumes on Negro art and history for his skills and his understanding of the artist's role in the world around him.

For being the sort of person who has "faced all sorts of prejudices" but has never permitted them "to get inside"; for his pioneering efforts in a geographic area, and an area of endeavor, which were at first suspicious of "pioneering"; for his devotion to those things in which he believes so deeply; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee as

REALTORS

A BOON OF PEACE AND DIGNITY

The serene loveliness of England's Cotswold district has been recreated in this unique Princeton Township setting. The low, many-gabled stone house is almost hidden among three acres of gardens, trees and fields. There is even a gentle, azalea-lined brook that widens to a pool beneath ancient willows. Indoor the tradition of centuries has shaped the meticulous detailing of the oak paneled walls and doors. The deep window seats, the exposed ceiling beams, and the stone fireplace. The kitchen however, is absolutely modern as are the two baths, one adjacent to a downstairs bedroom, one connecting two of the three bedrooms, under the sloping eaves. From the stone walled sunken garden to the cedar lined storage window seat on the stair landing, this house offers a traditional grace and beauty that is rare as it is precious.

FEELING BETTER TODAY? Care in Princeton Hospital's Intensive Care unit is really intensive, as this posed picture shows. The model's blood pressure, heart beat, respiration are being recorded constantly, she is being fed intravenously and there she could receive a blood transfusion too, if that were necessary. In the background is suction equipment and trays full of other emergency items. And it all adds up, not only in patient care, but in dollars, too. See "This is Princeton."

This Is PRINCETON

THOSE HOSPITAL COSTS

A Work-Together Plan. The more Princeton grows, the more intimately it becomes involved with the other communities around it, the less it remains an isolated island. Within the past few weeks, Princeton residents have read about the ways in which Princeton and its neighbors now cross their boundary lines — conferring about a regional sewer, or working together toward an agreed route for I-95.

There is inter-city cooperation, too, in another, less publicized area, an area in which thousands, perhaps millions of dollars can be saved for Mercer County residents by the simple device of working together and planning ahead.

Operating a hospital these days is a fantastically expensive business. Princeton Hospital stayed in the black last year by a scalpel-thin line. It is $1.5 million short of the money it needs to build a new patient care wing, and its board chairman has announced a family-to-family appeal for money.

But there is a way out — or at least a way not to get so far in. For slightly more than a year and a half, Princeton Hospital, Hamilton Hospital and the Trenton hospitals St. Francis, Helene Fuld and Mercer, have been working together as members of the Hospital Planning Association of Mercer County. The association's secretary is John W. Kauffman, administrator of Princeton Hospital.

Don't Duplicate! "The idea," Mr. Kauffman explains, "is to plan so we don't duplicate. For example, let's say we had an expensive cobalt unit — we don't, but it's an example. Our regional group would then say to Helene Fuld, for instance, 'No, you can't buy a cobalt unit, because Princeton has one. You're going to be the rehabilitation center for the whole area.' "

"This kind of thing takes tremendous planning, of course," Mr. Kauffman points out. "Right now, the Association is raising money to hire a consultant, and we're hoping for a Federal grant to study the total needs of Mercer County.

Princeton's Council of Community Services has endorsed the hospital's participation in the regional planning group, and has also given its approval to the application for Federal funds, money which would support half the cost of the consultant's survey.

Why a survey? To begin with, the hospital association has to know where the patients come from. It's a Mercer County group, but as everyone knows, patients come to Princeton Hospital from Franklin Park, which is in Middlesex County. And patients cross the river from Pennsylvania to be treated in Trenton hospitals.

Beyond this, the association needs to know exactly what each hospital has in the way of beds and equipment. If one hospital in the group has a bursting maternity ward and draws up plans to add more beds, the association must have figures to show that a second hospital in the county has a maternity ward which is used to only half its capacity.

Costs Could Go Down. "The five of us in Mercer County, the five hospitals together, have blocked out $17 million in expansion money for the next ten years," Mr. Kauffman says, "and area planning could reduce that figure . . . ! Well, I don't want to be quoted on how much that $17 million could go down for us all, but one area in upstate New York cut its figure by half."

Mr. Kauffman, needless to say is a keen supporter of area planning. He brings out figures to show that in Philadelphia, where the Hospital Planning Council postponed construction of 2,550 beds, the area involved saved $70 million in capital outlay. And in Chicago, the planning group saved the construction of 240 additional beds in one hospital alone.

"And we not only save money," Mr. Kauffman says, "we improve patient care, too, because we can have facilities we couldn't otherwise afford."

What is particularly needed in the way of patient care right now?

Mercer County as a whole needs really good, sound mental health facilities," Mr. Kauffman begins, "and that cobalt unit we mentioned as an example — we need that, too. A top-notch rehabilitation center is another need. And with Medicare, we're going to have to make changes in health planning for old people who need hospitalization or just custodial care."

By "we" of course, Mr. Kauffman means not just Princeton but the five hospitals in the County. He would also like to see more non-profit nursing homes. Most of those in operation today are proprietary, he points out.

The Hospital Planning Association of Mercer County is one of two in New Jersey, but the idea is growing across the nation and receiving stamps of approval all along the way!

New Jersey Blue Cross, for example, won't participate in the capital and operating costs of any new hospital improvements which have not been approved by a regional planning group, nor will it pay for services which the regional group is said are unnecessary for that hospital to offer.

How to Prune Costs. However, surveys take time, the Mercer County organization is only a scant two years old, and life at Princeton Hospital goes inexorably on, with a day by day battle to keep costs down and patient care up.

"One way we're saving money is to forget the five-day week," Mr. Kauffman says. "We simply must use this hospital seven days a week to make our capital investment pay. Right now, we're working six days a week — it's a big problem to get doctors to work on Sundays, although our doctors do stagger their weekend schedules so they can do elective surgery on Saturdays, and maybe even Sundays."

Surgery has been open on Saturdays only since October, but lab and X-ray facilities have been running on a six-day week for more than a decade. This is not merely an "on-call" arrangement, but regular assigned Saturday hours.

"Medical progress has cut down our costs, too," Mr. Kauffman adds, "things like mastoid, polio or lumbar pneumonia — we don't see them any more — and shorter bed stays are cheaper, too. If you had an appendix out today and spent as much time in the hospital as you did 20 years ago, the cost would be incredible."

Clean Sweep. Another way of keeping down costs is to keep house like a Scrooge. Each department makes a regular analysis of how much time and money it takes for the simplest work detail.

Housekeeping, for example, has submitted a 4-page report of its functions, a report so detailed that Mr. Kauffman can tell you how long it takes to damp-mop 8,714 square feet of floor. And if damp-mopping techniques can be pared down to eliminate 4.5 minutes of time, that's money in the bank.

Because hospitals everywhere are caught in the same cost squeeze, Princeton's staff members visit other hospitals to see what devices have been worked out elsewhere and in turn, show visitors from other towns how Princeton has solved a problem here, a problem there.

But for real long-range solutions, Mr. Kauffman and Princeton Hospital believe that area cooperation has the efficient and fruitful answer.

OFFICERS NAMED

By Adult School. At a meeting of the Princeton Adult School Committee, Mrs. George McCluskey, chairman of the nominating committee, recommended officers for the coming year.

They are: Mrs. Robert V. Dilley, chairman; Mrs. James C. Stretch, curriculum chairman; Miss Braxton Preston, secretary, and George W. Loos, treasurer. Mrs. George Thomas, a member of the committee since 1942 and chairman for the past three years, will continue to serve the group and her long devotion was unanimously commended by all the members present.

In her final report, Mrs. Thomas said that the past year was the most successful to date, with more than 1,700 students attending classes. She announced that the Fall term would begin on September 30 and run through December 9, with Open House held on September 23. A full list of the courses offered will appear early in September, and the committee suggests that all those interested in enrolling do so immediately after the information appears, as most of the courses are limited in size.

WIN A SCHOLARSHIP

Day Schools Offers Five. Boys and girls who plan to enter grades 8, 9 and 10, Princeton Day Schools, next fall may take a competitive examination on Saturday, April 24, to qualify for one of five scholarships to be awarded on the basis of ability and need.

The new awards, which will be given in amounts up to $1,000 per year, have been made possible through the gift of an anonymous donor who seeks to encourage able children to attend the school.

Boys and girls from schools outside the Princeton area as well as from Borough and Township are encouraged to apply; however, preference will be given to boys who wish to enter the tenth grade.

Applications for admission to the examination and additional information about the scholarships may be obtained by writing Richard C. Griggs, Director of Admissions, Princeton Country Day School, Broadmead, Princeton.

TRUSTEES CHOSEN

For Chapin. Four new members have been elected to the Board of Trustees of Chapin School for three year terms.

They are John L. Hammer, Stanley Apple, Steven Frohlich and Richard Lamb. Continuing Trustees are Robert Magid, Bernard Berlin, Mrs. Peter Goldman, Myron G. Darby Jr., Phillip Pratt, Herbert Moore, Mrs. Edward Ahrens and Mrs. Albert Rosenthal.

At the annual corporation meeting, Mrs. Olga T. Smith, headmistress, spoke on "The Prep School Scramble," and outlined the steps that Chapin School plans to take in order to avoid many of the admissions problems plaguing preparatory schools today.

Stanton Waterman will narrate his film, "Man Looks to the Sea," at a Chapin benefit to be given May 9 in the Kirby Arts Center, Lawrenceville School. Mrs. Stanley Apple, president of the Parents' Association, reported on the benefit.

Officers for 1965-66 for the Parents' Association are: Mrs. Apple, president; Mrs. Richard Huyt, vice-president; Mrs. Steven Frohlich, secretary and Mrs. Edward Ring, treasurer.

TRUSTEE RESIGNS

From Day Schools Board. Amos Eno of Quaker Road, a trustee of Princeton Day Schools and chairman of its Development Fund for the past two years, has submitted his resignation from both positions.

Mr. Eno's letter, addressed to the trustees, members of the faculty, officers of the Parents' Association and Class Mothers of Miss Fine's School, said in part:

"Additional funds are still needed to complete the new plant on the Great Road and additional funds will be required in the years to come. I believe recent events have seriously diminished the ability of the schools to obtain those funds. To make my regret for what happened most clear, I see no other way than to call on those people who have apparently successfully assumed the prerogatives of the board to assume yet another, that of fund raising.

"Substantial gifts were made to the schools not merely to perpetuate existing institutions but to improve them. What can be said now, to supporters of the past and potential givers of the future? That all changes in the curriculum have been resisted and that the status quo is sacrosanct?"

Thomas Hartmann, principal of the Day Schools, resigned from that position effective March 24.

Mr. Eno is in Nassau and not available for comment. Trustees have also declined comment except to express the opinion that Mr. Eno, as a matter of integrity, may have felt that he could not continue fund-raising activities following the resignation of Mr. Hartmann, whom he had supported.

WITHERSPOON REJECTED

As Vocational School. The Borough Board of Education's vocational committee has turned down the Witherspoon School as a possible site for vocational training. The decision, accepted by the Board last week, returns the school to the real estate market.

Mrs. Sarah Strayer and her committee inspected the school and reported that the planned program would be more effective if held at the high school. She stated that State and Federal funds are available for vocational education. The committee suggested that an addition be constructed to the high school to accommodate the program.

Target date for the John Witherspoon School, now under construction on Walnut Lane opposite the high school playing fields, is set for January 1965. Three of the four basements are currently being water-proofed, a $25,000 additional expense caused by the discovery of underground water.

The $2.5 billion building will replace the Nassau Street and Witherspoon Schools. In the blueprints for a merger between Borough and Township school districts, the building would be a junior high school.

DRIVER, 22, IS KILLED

When Sports Car Hits Pole. Harry P. Claar, 22, 182 Snowden Lane, was killed instantly at 2:26 a.m. Friday when his 1965 sports car went off Cherry Valley Road and sheared a telephone pole. He received a massive head wound.

Mr. Claar was a technician at the laboratories of the American Can Company on North Harrison Street where he had worked for the past nine months. His home town was Claysburg, Pa. He was not married.

According to Sgt. Michael Lisi of the Township Police, Mr. Claar's convertible left the roadway on a downhill curve about a half-mile west of Route 206. It then traveled 99 feet before it slammed into a telephone pole, shearing it off at ground level.

After breaking off the pole, his car continued another 18 feet, struck a tree and came to rest, upside down in the roadway, 13 feet from the tree. Mr. Claar was thrown from the seat but both his feet were pinned under the car's left front fender.

The victim was taken to Princeton Hospital by the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad. At the time of the accident, it was raining and the roadway was slippery, police said.

John M. Regan, 26, 29 William Street, received a concussion when his car left the Princeton-Hightstown Road at 4:15 a.m. Sunday and hit a tree. State Police said he was traveling alone at the time.

Mr. Regan was taken to Princeton Hospital. He was released Tuesday.

In the Doghouse. A pet dog triggered a single car mishap Thursday afternoon on Mt. Lucas Road.

Harry A. Hey, 80, of Skillman, told Township police as he was driving north on Mr. Lucas, his pet dog jumped into his lap causing him to lose control. Mr. Hey's car traveled some 300 feet on the right shoulder before hitting a pole. He received a broken nose and face cuts.

In the Borough, three residents of New Brunswick were injured in a two-car crash at the intersection of Nassau Street and Washington Road. The accident took place at 1:35 p.m. Sunday.

Frenell Webb, 33, of New Brunswick, was ticketed for careless driving, after he allowed his car to cross over the center of the intersection and crash head-on into a car operated by David K. Morash, 29, 38 Wheatsheaf Lane. Mr. Webb was also charged with no license in possession.

ONE LICENSE PLATE? The State Senate has passed a bill eliminating the front license plate on cars registered in New Jersey, and while the measure awaits a vote in the Assembly, there's considerable opposition brewing among law enforcement agencies. They make the point that identification of wanted cars is greatly facilitated by plates front and back.

Sponsors of the bill claim that elimination of one plate will save the State $250,000, and point to the fact that Pennsylvania and New York, both with more cars registered, use the single-plate system . . . the present plates have been in use since 1960, and if the Assembly passes the bill, plans for issuing one new one would be put in motion shortly thereafter.

LATE SPRING: It's all of that by now, as a cold March gives way to a chill April . . . temperatures have been subnormal almost without a break for the past three weeks, and even though it has not materialized as often as threatened, snow has been forecast on several occasions since that blanket of white arrived simultaneously with Spring on March 20.

During the past ten days, outlying areas have produced readings as low as 15 and 19, while only once since spring arrived has the mercury soared as high as the 50's . . . . rainfall during March was just about normal, but the garden-growers would be happy to trade some of those raindrops for a little more sunshine.

CRITICAL CRITIC: "All in all, the worst concert the Princeton Symphony has given within recent memory . . ." so writes reviewer Arno Safran this week in "Music in Princeton," page 8 . . . the opening of Community Players' newest production is detailed in "Theatres," pages 25-28, as are tryout dates for the 1965 P.J. & B. musical, "Wonderful Town."

Ever think of producing a motion picture on your own? A group of Princeton teenagers not only has thought of it but is doing it, in the best James Bond manner . . . "Suspense Films to Order" is the off-the-cuff name of their company . . . . read all about it in "Topics of the Town," page 30.

Car vandalism continues to play a major part in the week's news, and so do accidents — one of them bringing instant death to a young Princetonian . . . other news is considerably happier, ranging from dedication of a new room in the Nassau Inn to the memory of William R. "Buster" Lewis ("Business in Princeton," page 34), to plans for a spring carnival and parade of old cars at the YMCA (page 32)) and many other events that indicate the arrival of spring — even if the Weather Man is proving balky.

How do you feel about the use of non-lethal gas against the Vietcong? Your friends and neighbors give their opinions in "Question of the Week" (page 37), and quite a bit of controversy develops.

OTHER OPINIONS: Mailbox (page 14) continues to draw a variety of comment, correspondents having their say about the woman who departed in the middle of a church service apparently to express her opposition to the March on Montgomery; about the question of improved police protection in Princeton Township; and about the accuracy of the decimal points in Bill Bradley's scoring statistics.

Speaking of Bradley, this week's sports section estimates the future of the Princeton basketball team without him, a development that apparently will actually come to pass next winter . . . . pages 41 to 44 also report the possibility of his playing one more game, against a touring Russian quintet . . . there, too, is a complete rundown on the fortunes of the baseball, track and lacrosse teams at Princeton High School as analyzed by Preston Eckmeder of TOWN TOPICS' staff.

UPWARD TREND: Circulation for the current issue will top 16,700 copies, an all-time high for TOWN TOPICS . . . a part of the reason is availability for the first time of the paper in the general store in Roosevelt, in response to requests from residents of the community . . . those living in the Hightstown area will also find TOWN TOPICS in the new Shop-Rite on Route 130 . . . a list of out-of-town distribution points is published from time to time in the classified section, or may be obtained by calling TOWN TOPICS (924-2200).

MISCELLANY: A bill has passed the Legislature making front seat belts mandatory on all new cars sold in New Jersey after July 1, 1966 . . . another bill, seeking to advance the start of Daylight Saving Time to the last Sunday in March, died without action, but even if passed, it would have been contingent upon similiar action in New York and Pennsylvania, two states which do not appear disposed to such a change . . . . Daylight Time will begin at 2 a.m. Sunday, April 25.

The immediate effect on the Princeton area of the proposed merger of the Pennsylvania and New York Central Railroads, tentatively approved this week by the ICC, seems in doubt . . . If nothing else, it will allow the chamber of Commerce to add to its enticements the fact that "the world's largest railroad serves the Princeton community."

As an unusually cold and frequently wet March moves into the past, there are no regrets. Rather, a hope that winter would not suddenly be replaced by summer, bypassing spring entirely.

There is reason to believe that the recent chill is about to be replaced by a milding trend. Gradually abating wind, alowing rising temperatures are forecast for the next few days. The weekend may even be downright delightful, if showers do not return to mar the scene.

SOME FAMILIES PLAY TOGETHER
. . . AND STAY TOGETHER!

Does owning a swimming pool produce a tighter-knit family? Definitely, said pool owners across the country in a recent nationwide poll. Here are the reasons they gave for owning a pool:

1. It keeps the family together. Children want to stay home; teenagers entertain at home.
2. It's safe. Youngsters learn to swim quickly. Keeps entire family off highways on weekends and holidays.

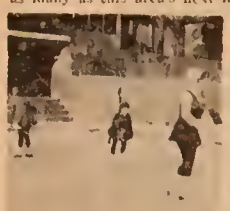
SYLVAN . . . THE POOL FOR ALL SEASONS

Swimming pools come in a wide range of quality. Sylvan Pools are designed and engineered to withstand the severe winter conditions found in the Northeast; in fact, you can ice skate on any Sylvan Pool.

Sylvan builds 1,000 pools a year, more than 4 times as many as this area's next largest builder. Sylvan employs 200 skilled craftsmen on a year-round basis, men who average more than 6 years with Sylvan experience. Sylvan uses no subcontractors; thus, your guarantee is assured by one responsible, self-contained, local company.



When you buy a Sylvan Pool you are assured of quality, integrity and 18 years experience. Sylvan has produced quality pools continually and has 4 Gold Medal awards to prove it.

The Sylvan Plan: Everything In One Package, Payable Monthly!

If you can afford to buy an automobile you can afford a pool because a Sylvan Pool, in many cases, costs less than the price of a new car (and there's less maintenance, no depreciation—it adds to your property value).

A Sylvan Pool (reinforced concrete, the finest you can buy) can be yours for $48.33 per month if you finance it for 7 years.

Price of Pool	Monthly Payment
$2980	$48.33
$3480	$57.28
$3980	$66.22

Two of the three passengers in Mr. Webb's car were slightly injured. Robert Jackson, 31, received contusions; Craig Jackson, 4, hit his head and received a bloody nose; Mr. Webb sustained lacerations to his left eye and contusions. Both cars were towed away. Mr. Morash was not injured.

CAR BATTERIES TAKEN

From Graduate School Lot. Three batteries were stolen Friday night from cars in the Graduate School's Springdale Road parking lot.

James G. Dill Jr., Stewart Gillmor and William DeWitt, all members of the Graduate College, reported the thefts to Proctor Peter Swayze who notified Township police. Mr. Dill placed a value of $30 on his battery.

An attempted battery larceny was reported by T. J. Gibson of the Graduate School. He said cables to his battery had been loosened and a sharp instrument had been punched into its side, causing the acid to leak out. All the thefts occurred between Friday night and Saturday morning.

Police also reported the theft of a box of three elevator pads last week from the Faculty apartments construction site. They were valued at $100.

An employee of the Otis Elevator Company said the pads had been delivered to the site about two weeks ago and placed in the building. The pads, resembling a wrestling mat, are used to line freight elevators to prevent scratching and marring.

On Friday, a spokesman for Llanfair, housing contractor, told Township police that 37 windows had been broken in a home being constructed at 25 Philips Drive. The windows, 24 of them 10 by 12 inches, had been shattered the night before.

In their report, police noted that two boys, age 6 and 7, had admitted throwing stones at the windows. Their parents agreed to pay the $42 damage

DEATH SEAT: When Harry P. Claar's sports car ran off the side of Cherry Valley Road early Friday morning and struck a telephone pole, the impact forced his head backward against a sharp edge of the car's body. He died instantly from a massive head wound. (Richard V. Steiner Photo)

MORE CAR VANDALISM

Eight Victimized. Eight Princeton car owners were the victims last week of vandals who apparently enjoy slashing convertible tops, snapping off antennas, bending wipers and stealing batteries. With one exception, all were reported as having taken place last Tuesday evening.

That was Mrs. Jean Lilly, 26 Moore Street, who told Borough police the antenna of her car had been broken off last weekend but she was not able to say where or when it happened.

Thomas C. Witter, 418 Franklin Avenue, told police that he parked his car on Nassau Street last Tuesday at 8:25 p.m. and in the five minutes he spent in Cox's Store, 182 Nassau, someone broke his car's antenna off.

Patrolmen John Markuson and Arthur Jackson investigated. Moments later they discovered two more cars, parked in the lot at the rear of Andy's Diner, 173 Nassau, had received the "treatment". A convertible top owned by Richard Chronister, 172 Nassau, had been sashed, and the wiper blades bent and a rear window broken on a car owned by Shedon S. Myers, 11 Madison Street.

Others: Prentis Dreher, antenna off car parked in front of his home at 25 Madison Street; Richard Lindabury, Westcott Road, two slashes in convertibe top of his car parked in the rear of Turney Motors; John D. White, of the Graduate Colege, convertible slashed on car in IDA parking yard, located to the rear of Turney Motors; and James Carson, 165 Witherspoon, battery stolen from his car parked in rear of Houghton Building, 221 Witherspoon Street.

$142.75 IS STOLEN From Seminary Snack Bar. A thief entered the campus snack bar of the Theological Seminary last weekend and departed with $142.75.

According to Robert Bonnell, cook at the snack bar who reported the theft, entry was gained by ripping a screen door to get at its latch. An inside door was not locked.

Once inside, the intruder forced open a cash box and took $49. An attempt to rifle a candy machine failed.

Upstairs, in the dining room, a wooden drawer located in a counter, was pried open. From it the thief took $03.75, leaving behind a check and one dime. The theft is under investigation by Borough police.

1027 CALLS ANSWERED By Rescue Squad In 1964. The Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad answered 1027 calls in 1064, the first time in its history it has exceeded the 1000 mark.

H. G. Tunning, captain of the squad, reported that there were 618 emergency calls, 338 transportation calls and 71 miscellaneous. The organization's 27 members traveled 15,204 miles and gave 12,073 hours of their time. This represents the equivalent of 11 weeks of full time employment without pay for each member, Mr. Tunning pointed out.

THE NAME'S A PROBLEM For Naturalist Club. Every now and then someone suggests that the Trenton Naturalist Club change its name. Founded in 1936, less than half of its 400 members live in Trenton Sixty are Pennsylvanians, mainly from lower Bucks County, and the majority of the remainder live in or around Princeton.

Much of the leadership has come from Princeton. Mrs. Ralph H. Fox of 134 Cedar Lane is now serving as president after an extremely active interval as program chairman. Charles H. Rogers of 20 Haslet Avenue, curator of ornithology at Princeton University, was president for two terms. George W. Lock of Princeton Junction also served a double term.

The club was founded by Miss Winifred Weldon of Trenton. Its first meetings were held in the New Jersey State Museum in Trenton. The popular wildlife film series, known as "Audubon Screen Tours," are held during the winter in the 1,160-seat auditorium of Trenton Junior High School No. 3, West State Street and Parkside Avenue, because Trenton is central.

But the Princeton strength is such that the proposal keeps cropping up to change the name to Princeton Naturalist Club. "We are actually made up of members from the Delaware valley," Mrs. Fox says. "And there are endless organizations of that title. There's even a Delaware Valley Ornithologists' Club. . ." So the matter rests.

"YOU CAN FIND OWLS through watching the crows," says Mrs. Ralph H. Fox, president of the Trenton Naturalist Club, who found a great-horned owl nesting in Herrontown Woods. She began birding about 10 years ago while on 6 to 8 a.m. duty as a plane spotter with ornithologist Charles Rogers. "I wish I could remember all I heard!" Story, this page. (Staff photo)

Brigantine Next. Now that winter and the film series have ended, members look forward to the annual trip on Sunday, April 11 to the Brigantine Wildlife Refuge. A clue to their dedication is the fact that they are scheduled to meet at the Refuge office at 8:30 a.m. Amateur ornithologist William E. Parker, Hightstown dentist, will lead the tour ("no walking necessary"), as he has in the past.

With this as a warm-up, club members will take a field trip to observe bird migration on Saturday, May 8, near Hardin Road, at the end of Springdale Road. ("Meet at 7:30 a.m.") Then on Sunday, May 16, the hardy ones will gather at 6:30 a.m. at the Pavilion in Washington Crossing State Park, on the Pennsylvania side, for the annual nature walk on Bowman's Hill with Edward Carter, park botanist. The program softens a little here, and members are told "8 a.m. breakfast—cookout or bring picnic."

One of the most anticipated events is the less rigorous bus trip to the Great Swamp in Morris County, where plants, animals and birds are present in fascinating variety. This project was begun by Mrs. Fox during her program chairman days.

"I felt that there were groups of people, either older people, or those handicapped in some way, who didn't want to travel any great distance in a car. Yet they would like to go to some interesting place. We usually have two or three buses full." This year's jaunt will be on Saturday, May 22, and all ages go.

Last on the agenda this year is a field trip led by ornithologist Charles Rogers on August 14 to the Holgate Wildlife Refuge and Tuckerson Meadows near Manahawkin. Mr. Rogers joined with botanist Vincent Ahralitys in leading a safari to Island Beach last fall.

Sanctuaries. The Princeton area, although it is changing rapidly, has been known for years as a focal point for wildlife observation. Lake Carnegie, Aqueduct Pond, Stony Brook, Millstone River, the ponds at Educational Testing Service and Western Electric and the large swamp in West Windsor (where there'll soon be a recreation park) are all known as natural sanctuaries.

The Audubon Society's Stony Ford Sanctuary on Pretty Brook Road the grounds of the Institute for Advanced Study and the Herrontown Woods have been recently reserved for wildlife, but some of the others are contingent upon community growth.

School Starts? I Haven't Had Vacation Yet!

Mercer County schools—this means Borough and Township, but not West Windsor because they changed their minds—will open for the 1965-66 school year on Wednesday, September 8.

The calendar also applies to all Princeton High School sending districts, regardless of county, provided the school boards approve.

Sept. 8	School Starts for Students
Nov. 11, 12	Closed for NJEA Convention
Nov. 24	Close at 12:30 for Holidays
Nov. 25, 26	Thanksgiving Recess
Dec. 23	Close at 12.30 for Holidays
Dec. 24-31	Christmas Recess
Feb. 21-25	Mid-Winter Recess
April 8-15	Spring Recess
May 30	Memorial Day
June 20, 21, 22	Close at 12.30
June 22	School Closes for Students
June 23	School Closes for Staff

West Windsor will close on June 17, with a shorter spring recess.

State law requires a minimum of 180 school days, and this calendar calls for 184 Dr. John McKenna, Township superintendent, has told his Board that he agrees with State Education Commissioner Frederick Raubinger that the school year should be extended beyond the 180 days. "Our heavy program can use a few more days to everyone's advantage," Dr. McKenna said.

There are no specific "snow days" in the calendar.

is the "west walk on Stony Brook from the head of Lake Carnegie." Naturalists have noticed that the water table is falling in the marsh near the Stony Brook pumping station.

"If your interest is natural history," says Mrs. Charles Rogers, a botanist, "you get concerned. And that good swamp in West Windsor, where you could always count on finding rails, they'll probably fill it in and put a golf course there."

Variety. Club members have been exposed to a wide variety of lectures. Two University geologists, Erling Dorf and H. D. Holland have led field trips up the Delaware. Astronomer Martin Schwarzschild discussed the stratoscope balloon launching at one session, and his associate George B. Field gave a talk on "Jupiter, the Hot and Cold Planet" at another. Colin S. Pittendrigh, University biologist ,lectured on the "Overhead Ponds of South American Rain Forests." And there was a talk on the Sputnik two days after its launching by the Russians.

Many members take part in the annual bird census, led by Mr. Rogers. Sixty-six varieties were counted in December.

The club also keeps a friendly eye on the Canadian wild geese which make abundant use of local waterways during migratory months. A flock of 125 was found last fall.

Membership is $3 for individuals; $6 for families. Funds go to conservation projects, Stony Ford Sanctuary, Stokes Forest trips for children and similar items. As education is its goal, new members are warmly welcomed.

CENTER IS SOLD

Lawrence Shopping Area. The Lawrence Shopping Center between Route One and Princeton Pike, has been sold by its owners, Lawrence Center Associates of Newark, to Charles Levy and Jules Aresty, owners of S. P. Dunham & Co., the Trenton department store. No sale price was given.

S. P. Dunham has a branch in the Lawrence Shopping Center which is the Center's largest store. Other tenants are Stacy's, Duane Shoes (formerly Sladkus), Food Fair, Browning King, W. T. Grant, Neisner Brothers Variety Stores, Rexall Drugs, Loft Candies, National Cleaners, National Shoes, the Lawrence Liquor Store and a branch of the Lawrence Township public library.

The center has parking space for 2,500 cars. It was opened in 1960. Mr. Levy and Mr. Aresty said they planned to improve the Center but they did not give details.

FATHER-SON DINNER SET

By Pennington YMCA. The Pennington YMCA annual Father and Son Banquet will be held April 13 at 6:15 in the Central High School cafeteria.

Featured will be film highlights of the 1964 Princeton Ivy League Championship football team. Tickets are available from Carl Logsdon, Richard Housner, William Andreas or Stephen Raciti, chairman. Further information may be obtained by calling 737-2276.

TWO ARE FINED

For Red Light Violations. Laurence A. Glass, 28, River Road, Belle Mead, and Jarmila Z. Moorshead, 42, Brunswick Pike, were each fined $12 Monday by Borough Magistrate Theodore T. Tams Jr. for red light violations.

Lauren D. Rhine, 38, Rosedale Road, driver of the Columbus Boychoir bus, paid $15 for driving without a side mirror. Kenneth W. Kayser, 17, 249 Riverside Drive, paid $12 for a stop sign infraction.

OLD AMERICA DISPLAYED

In University Exhibition. Princeton University has placed an exhibition of pre-Columbian civilization on display in Firestone Library.

The exhibit is entitled "Ancient America: Five Centuries of Discovery" and deals with the continent since the time of the Spanish conquest. The display includes a set of lithographs of Yucatan ruins and 16th century Mayan language manuscripts written in the Latin alphabet.

The exhibit was organized by Alfred L. Bush, curator of the library's Rollins Collection of Western Americana, and Gillett G. Griffin, curator of graphic arts. The lithographs are from the private collection of Prof. Robert W. McLaughlin Jr., who is retiring this year as director of the school of architecture.

MUSIC In Princeton

SYMPHONY DISPLEASES

Concert Strongly Criticized. On Monday evening, the Princeton Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Nicholas Harsanyi, presented its third concert of the season at McCarter Theater. The program consisted of the Overture to "The Merry Wives of Windsor" by Nicolai, Beethoven's Second Symphony, a new work by Philip Batstone entitled, "Overture in the Form of a Cadenza for Orchestra," and the Concerto No. 2 for Piano and Orchestra in A Major by Franz Liszt. Robert Helps was the featured piano soloist in the Liszt concerto.

Mr. Harsanyi began the concert with a nicely paced reading of Nicolai's light hearted score. There was a lilt and joviality to the phrasing that brought out the almost romantic naivete of the music.

From this point on however, the concert ran downhill rapidly. The Beethoven symphony simply lacked excitement and failed to maintain interest over the four movement span.

The ensemble playing in many places was shoddy and unclear, especially in the attacks at the beginning of a phrase. Mr. Harsanyi failed to provide a variety of dynamic shading which resulted in a constant shifting from piano to fortissimo causing monotony. Certain string passages were lovely but others, notably in the cello section were considerably weak.

After the intermission came a performance of a new composition by Philip Batstone, a member of the graduate school of Princeton University. Mr. Batstone's own program notes suggest the pattern of things to come in his work: confusion! This is "paper music" in every sense of the term. It looks interesting to the eye, but sounds meaningless to the ear.

In discussing his music in his prepared notes for the program, Mr. Batstone seems more dedicated to semantic correctness than a genuine analysis of his musical statement. He states that his "Overture is not an overture in the form of a cadenza which happens to be for orchestra. Rather, it is an overture which is in the form of a Cadenza for Orchestra." Earlier he mentions, "this piece is for full orchestra and does not have any long solos as the title might suggest."

Emptiness of Writing. Yet, upon hearing this work, one notices the emptiness of the orchestral writing. One hears more often than not, disjointed solo linear segments (one could hardly call them phrases), segments that are rhythmically awkward, shapeless and ambivalent, one might also suggest contrived.

Referring once again to the composer's notes: "The piece presents various musical ideas in parentheses, as it were. The latter fact shows the most important similarity to the cadenzas of classical concerti." He then goes on to say, "I have relied upon serial developmental techniques to create formal coherence out of what might have been a string of unrelated sections."

Unfortunately, the music still remains a string of unrelated sections within a framework of undefined parentheses. In short, an unmitigated bore.

The tragic thing about music such as this is the lack of originality, individuality and creative spirit that permeates every bar by those who shelter themselves behind the facade of cerebralism for its own sake.

With Robert Helps as pianist, one looked forward to an exciting performance of the Liszt concerto. It started off that way with some incisive playing by Mr. Helps, but towards the final section of the concerto, the pianist and conductor appeared to be in disagreement as to tempi and interpretation.

All in all, this was the worst concert by the Princeton Symphony in recent memory. The program was terrible, as was the attendance. Mr. Harsanyi conducted the Nicolai and the Beethoven works with the Trenton Symphony earlier this year and that partially explains their inclusion in Princeton Symphony concerts, but it is not commendable for that reason.

The Liszt Concerto may have been the soloist's choice. It is a weak work, despite a colorful spot here and there. The Princeton Symphony Board and Mr. Harsanyi in particular, ought seriously to reshape their thinking about the purpose of this orchestra, an orchestra that is made up of mostly professional musicians from out of town.

Does it really serve the Princeton community or does it exist merely as a vehicle for its conductor's professional development? Surely, Mr. Harsanyi is a highly competent musician as demonstrated by much of what he performs with his new chamber orchestra.

It is high time, however, that he realize that Princeton audiences, already saturated by much music during the season, (good and bad) are not prepared to support an orchestra that dedicates itself to the performance of fifth-rate concertoes, minor opera overtures and dull and unimaginative new works.

-Arno Safran

A CHORAL GIFT

Honoring 90th Year. The 90th birthday of Paul Bedford, '97, trustee emeritus of Princeton University and benefactor of music at Princeton, will be commemorated Sunday, April 11, by a choral concert at 3 in McCarter Theatre.

Participating in the concert will be the Princeton University Glee Club, the Smith College Glee Club and the Princeton Chamber Orchestra. Ten years ago, the Princeton University Glee Club gave a concert in honor of Mr. Bedford's 80th birthday.

This year, the combined groups will present the Bach Missa Brevis in G and selected choruses from Henry Purcell's "The Fairy Queen," and the Smith-Princeton Chamber Chorus will perform Brahms' "Warum ist das Licht Gegeben?" This is the chamber singing group that will tour Europe this summer for five weeks, and the McCarter appearance will be its first public one.

Another first will be the debut of the Bannister harpsichord recently acquired by the Singers Mary Lynne Bird and Debbie Truxall find themselves signed up for a full schedule this week-end. Mrs. Bird, who sang with the Princeton Opera Association Workshop in "Cosi Fan Tutte" and "Rigoletto," will appear before patients at the New Jersey Neuropsychiatric Institute Sunday at 7:30 p.m. in the second act duet from "Rigoletto."

Provided she gets back from Brooklyn, that is. Because she will make her Brooklyn debut at 2:45 p.m. in a broadcast performance of "Gianoi Schicchi" at the Brooklyn Museum of Art.

Debbie Truxall, who sang Violetta in "La Traviata" in the workshop presentation and Adele in "Die Fledermaus," will repeat Adele in Skillman. She will also play the leading role in "Plain and Fancy" with the Pennington Players. But not this weekend.

Tour attendance will be limited to 100 persons and reservations may be made by calling James Horner at Western Electric, 639-2236. Dr. Robert Vichnevetsky, director of computer applications research at the host organization, will give an introductory talk to the visitors.

DATE CHANGED

By English-Speaking Union. The date of the annual dinner meeting of the Princeton Branch of the English-Speaking Union has been changed from Friday, April 8, to Monday, April 26.

The location has also been changed from the Princeton Inn to the Nassau Inn. The speaker will be Mr. Paul H. G. Wright, director general of the British Information Services.

INAUGURATION SET

For New Peddie Headmaster. Albert L. Kerr will be inducted as the 12th headmaster of the Peddie School in a ceremony Saturday at the school in Hightstown.

Mr. Kerr will formally accept the office from New Jersey's Governor, Richard J. Hughes. President Charles H. Watts II of Bucknell University and President Weimer K. Hicks of Kalamazoo (Mich.) College will also speak at the ceremony.

Mr. Kerr was appointed to the post of headmaster last July and assumed his duties at the beginning of Peddie's Centennial Year, 1964-65. A graduate of Andover and Yale, Mr. Kerr also received a master's degree from the Harvard Graduate School of Education.

In his first year Mr. Kerr has instituted a number of programs for students and faculty. In the Hightstown Tutoring Project, selected juniors and seniors join once a week with members of Hightstown High School in helping boys and girls of the community with their studies. Another innovation of Mr. Kerr's is the Summer Grant Program which permits selected teachers to travel or study in their special fields.

VARIANCE GRANTED

To Tower Club. The Borough Zoning Board last week granted a side - yard variance to Tower Club, 18 Prospect Avenue, permitting it to construct a 1,200-square foot dining room.

The new addition — which will not be visable from Prospect — will adjoin the present kitchen located to the rear of the 50-year-old club. Its roof will serve as a terrace.

MEETING PLANNED

By American Legion. Princeton Post 76, American Legion, will observe Boys State Night at its regular meeting on April 14. Conducted on a countrywide basis by the Legion, the program is sponsored in the interest of promoting citizenship among teen-age boys.

Post Commander Robert Schmidt and his committee have chosen the boys who will represent Princeton at the New Jersey Boys State on the Rutgers Campus in June. It is hoped that one of them will be elected Boys State Governor of New Jersey.

COOK AND WRITE

Simultaneously? A creative writing course has been added to the curriculum for the spring session at the YWCA. Mrs. Jordon Pecile, winner of the Best Short Story Award of the Atlantic Monthly in 1963, will preside.

A class in gourmet cookery will also be offered by the "Y". The cook and teacher will be Mrs. Eileen Rebman, who promises new recipes which have not previously been revealed at "Y" cooking classes.

The creative writing course will be held Wednesdays from 8 to 10 p.m., and the cooking class Friday mornings from 9.30 to 11:30.

Registration for these and all other classes will begin Thursday at 8 p.m. and continue on that evening until 9:30. On Friday, registration will be held all day, from 9 to 5 and on Saturday from 9 to noon at the "Y" building on Avalon Place.

HAT SALE PLANNED

By Witherspoon Lodge Elks. A hat sale, sponsored by Rising Sun Temple No. 119 of Witherspoon Lodge Elks, will take place Saturday from 7 to 10 p.m. at the Elks' Home, Birch Avenue.

All hats are priced at $3.98. Mrs. Bettye Preston is chairman of the sale.

MEETING TO BE HELD

By Ladies Auxiliary. The Ladies Auxiliary of Princeton Lodge No. 2129, B.P.O. Elks, will hold a meeting on Thursday at 8 p.m. at the Rocky Hill Firehouse on Washington Street.

Officers of the auxiliary are: Carol Robotti, president; Marie Moran, vice-president; Emily Perantoni, secretary; and Lillian Brandt, treasurer.

SECOND TOUR PLANNED

By League of Women Voters. The League of Women Voters has arranged a second tour of Trenton State Hospital and the State Home for Boys at Jamesburg for Saturday, April 10. There will be a briefing and guided tour at each of the institutions and a visitor's lunch at Jamesburg.

Three alternate itineraries are also open to the public: the State Prison Farm at Rahway and State School for the Retarded at Woodbridge; North Jersey Training School at Totowa and State Hospital at Greystone Park; the State Colony at New Lisbon and Reformatory at Bordentown.

Car pools are expected to leave Princeton by 9:30 and return about 3. Reservations and transportation arrangements can be made through Mrs. Frank Reiche at 921-8389 and Mrs. William Brower at 921-6988.

ART PROGRAM PLANNED

At Queenstown Shop. Rosemary Wetherill will welcome all art lovers to "Friday Nights of Art," beginning this Friday at her new Queenstown Shop in Pennington. Miss Elizabeth Ruggles will be continuing the popular programs she has taught in Yardley, Pa., for the past three years.

Miss Ruggles has been teaching art for 20 years at the Trenton Art School and Yardley. The evening will consist of demonstrations, lectures, discussions and films. A fee of 50 cents will be collected to cover the cost of the refreshments.

ON THE MOVE

University Shifts Offices. Princeton University plans to move its administrative offices providing services for undergraduates into West College next year.

The offices of J. Merrill Knapp, dean of the college, and William D. Lippincott, dean of students, will move from Nassau Hall to the fourth floor of West College. The new home of the administrative offices will be renovated and an elevator will be installed.

The renovation should be completed in time to house the offices of the following associate deans by next fall: in the office of the dean of the college, Richard D. Challener, Dennis O'Brien and David H. Blair Jr. and in the office of the dean of students, James B. Laughlin Jr. The board of advisers under Mr. Challener and Prof. Richard B. Winder, secretary, will also be in the renovated quarters.

Already located in the building are the offices of admission, the registrar, college operations, students services and the bureau of student aid. The university believes that relocation of the deans offices will permit closer coordination of the various services.

BOYS TO STUDY ABROAD

A "German Summer." Intensive study of the German Language will occupy boys enrolled this summer in the Hun School Summer Session in German, affiliated with "Classrooms Abroad in Europe".

For seven weeks, students will live with families in Baden, Austria, receiving instruction from German and American professors in private classes of seven to ten students. The instruction is expected to provide the equivalent of at least one year of college-level language study, including audio - visual programs.

Visits and overnight excursions to festivals and landmarks in surrounding provinces will be part of the program. Boys will attend the theatre and concerts, visit museums, tour factories and participate in various social activities.

University's department of music.

Walter Nollner is conductor of the Princeton Glee Club, Iva Dee Hiatt of the Smith Club and Nicholas Harsanyi of the Princeton Chamber Orchestra.

CHAMBER GROUP TO PLAY

Before New York Debut. The Princeton Chamber Orchestra under its founder and director, Nicholas Harsanyi, will perform in McCarter Theatre Monday at 8:30, two days before its New York Town Hall debut. (See below).

The appearance will be the fifth in Series II of the season's Princeton University Concerts, and a few seats still remain.

For its Princeton concert, the orchestra will play compositions by Vivaldi, Vincent Persichetti, Ernst Krenek and Dvorak. An ensemble of 21 professional musicians, the Princeton Chamber Orchestra is the first permanent chamber orchestra in the country, playing from a wide repertoire of music drawn from many periods.

TO DEBUT IN NEW YORK

Princeton Group. Playing a composition by Roy Harris dedicated to the Princeton Chamber Orchestra and Nicholas Harsanyi, the Princeton chamber group will make its New York debut in Town Hall Wednesday, April 7 at 8:30.

Mr. Harsanyi, the orchestra's conductor, will be on the podium in a program of works by Mozart, Dvorak and Krenek, as well as the Harris composition.

"Rhythms and spaces, a "symphonic trilogy for string orchestra," has been based by Dr. Harris on material used in his 1935 string quartet.

"Nicholas Harsanyi has been known to me for 25 years as a musician of unusual endowments and high ideals," Dr. Harris said this week, "these impressions were strongly confirmed when he performed my Third Symphony for the opening concert of the New Jersey Tercentenary Festival Orchestra in the summer of 1964."

"It was, therefore, a pleasure to accept this invitation to write a new work for his new Chamber Orchestra for the first performance of that work in the first performance of his orchestra in New York."

FOLK GROUP TO MEET

For Discussion Program. The Princeton Folk Music Society will meet Friday, April 9, at 8:30 in the main conference room in Wilcox Hall. The meeting is open to the public.

Maxine Beagles, the guest speaker, will discuss gospel and spiritual music. She will highlight her talk by playing tapes and singing to demonstrate her analysis. Coffee will be served and there will be an informal sing following the talk.

NACHTMUSIK

At Woolworth Center. An evening of chamber music will be presented free to the public by the Friends of Music at Princeton and the music department of the University on Wednesday, April 7, at 8:30 in room 110, Woolworth Center of Musical Studies.

The program will consist of Schumann's Adagio and Allegro, Opus 70 for horn and piano, played by George Gelles ('65) and Victor Rosenbaum; songs by Brahms and Schoenberg with Nancy Wertsch, soprano and David Steinbrook, piano and Bach's Partita No. 1 in B minor with Nicholas Birchby, '68, violin.

LET'S DISCUSS MUSIC

New Program at "Y". "Perspectives in Music," combining listening and discussion of fine music, will be offered for the first time this spring by the YMCA.

Designed for young adults and high school students, the six-week program will be given by Seymour Mandel starting Tuesday at 8 p.m.

Mr. Mandel will include in his course such topics as the evolution of the American opera, the role of the conductor and the influence of the music of the American Indian on contemporary music.

The program will begin about June 15 and will continue until August 20, followed by an optional two-week tour to various cities in Germany.

Additional information may be obtained from Edison C. Sickman, Director of the Summer Session, The Hun School.

BUILDING RE-NAMED

By Uoiversity. Woodrow Wilson Hall, which to residents' fascination was rolled 296 feet back from Washington Road in 1963, has been renamed "Edward S. Corwin Hall."

The new name honors Princeton University's first chairman of the politics department, where he served on the faculty for 41 years. The departmeot and the Center of International Studies will be located in Corwin Hall.

Nearing completion on Washington Road is the white pillared structure designed by Minoru Yamasaki, which will be called the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. It occupies the former site of the now-designated Corwin Hall.

Professor Corwin came to Princeton in 1905 as one of the original group of preceptors recruited by President Woodrow Wilson. He was a full professor in six years at the age of 33, and was subsequently appointed to the McCormick Professorship in Jurisprudence, which Wilson held.

His monumental "The Constitution and What It Means Today" gained national recognition in 1920, eventually attaining 11 editions and numerous translations. A Princeton faculty minute described him as a "scholar's scholar," and he was recognized for his rare ability to judge young men by what they may yet become.

GENETICS TALK IS NEXT

Kenneth Michael, principal of the high school, will also speak. The school choir, directed by Hedley Yost, will sing a portion from the "Mass in G" by Franz Schubert. Following the program there will be a reception, refreshments and tea dancing in the cafeteria. Faculty, Latin students, parents and friends, and visiting students from other schools are invited.

GARDEN CLUB WILL MEET

In Hopewell Valley. The next meeting of the Hopewell Valley Garden Club will be held next Wednesday at 1:30 at the American Legion Hall in Hopewell. Mrs. Elizabeth Woodford of Marlton will speak on "Bringing the Outdoors In."

She will demonstrate the use of pine cones, weathered wood, fungi and mosses in artistic arrangements, corsages and table favors, including instruction on making a terrarium. Mrs. Oscar Owen of Kingston is chairman of the hospitality committee. The meeting is open to the public.

COURSE TO BE OFFERED

Concerning Investments. The Princeton YMCA will offer a basic course in understanding investments for four consecutive Tuesday evenings beginning next week. The course will last for two hours, and is available to members and non-members of the YMCA.

Donald F. O'Brien, account executive for the Trenton Office of Merill, Lynch wil conduct the series. He will discuss various types of securities, the working of the stock exchange, how to read a financial statement, where an investor finds information, and how to evaluate stocks.

Dilley Due in June

The long-awaited Dilley report on the possibility of consolidating Borough and Township may be ready about June 1.

Borough Mayor Henry S. Patterson said on Tuesday at his weekly press conference that some final figures in the school section were still outstanding and that until these figures had been obtained, the report could not even go to the printer.

Printing estimates call for 5,000 copies of a 200-page document.

the Social Security Administration has a word for you.

A report of your 1964 earnings must be filed in the Trenton District Office of the Social Security Administration by April 15. The report is required of anyone whose earnings were more than $1200 in 1964, and who was under the age of 72 in any month of that year.

If you were under 72 and earned more than $1200, some or all of your monthly social security benefits must be withheld. The annual report helps Social Security to figure out whether you have been overpaid, or whether the government owes you money. If you fail to file your report on time, you may be penalized by having extra payments withheld.

Additional information may be obtained from the Social Security District Office, 437 East State Street, Trenton, 396-3545.

Woman's Goodoel "Shocking."

To the Editor of Town Topics:

It may be that the woman who walked out of a service at Trinity Church (as reported in the March 18th issue of "Town Topics") was ill and that withdrawal had nothing to do with the clergy's attitude toward Selma and the Freedom March.

However, if she did leave the church in the midst of a service for the latter reason, her conduct was shocking and to be deplored, for there is such a thing as "church manners." After the service was over she was quite free never to attend another, or to write to the clergy regarding her opinions. To leave the serivce in a huff, bespeaks only arrogance, childish pettiness and, worst of all "exquisitely bad taste."

Asks Reeb Fund Donations

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I am writing because it seems to me that a news item that constitutes a service in the public interest has so far escaped publication in the local press. Doubtless, this has been owing to the failure of myself, among others, to bring it properly to your attention. Let me now try to remedy that deficiency.

When Rev. James J. Reeb, a Unitarian minister and graduate of the Princeton Theological Seminary, was killed in Selma, a memorial fund was established in his name. This fund was not parochial in its character or purposes. It is to be administered by the American Friends Service Committee, the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, and the Unitarian-Universalist Association. The funds raised will be spent, not simply for the benefit of the widow and children of the late James Reeb, but for all those, Negro or white, who may have suffered through their involvement in the cause of civil rights. Therefore, the husband of the late Mrs. Liuzzo and her children would also benefit, as would many others.

Although I cannot claim to have read every line of every issue of the local papers and though I am told that there has been some glancing reference to this fund, it seems to me that the people of this community have not been made sufficiently aware of this fund. In the past two weeks, the Unitarian Church of Princeton has raised $696.17 for the James J. Reeb Memorial Fund.

If this were solely a Unitarian-Universalist project, it might not deserve mention in the local press. Since its character and aims are committed to a much broader area of a struggle that presently concerns all Americans, and since that struggle has just claimed another martyr, it seems to me that it does deserve mention.

It offers an opportunity to local citizens to express their concern by sending their contributions to this fund through any one of the three agencies who are sponsoring it. Locally, such contributions might be addressed to the Unitarian Church of Princeton, Box 402, but even if this fact is not mentioned in your papers, I would hope that the other elements of the story might be covered.

"The Police Are Human."

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The March 25th issue of Town Topics carried a letter from Mrs. Frank Caplan in which she deplored the crime rate in the Princeton area and suggested that, among other things, there is a need for more police and police equipment. It was implicit in her letter that a substantial increase in the police force would go far in alleviating this problem.

I direct this letter, then, to Mrs. Caplan and to others who share her views:

The police are, after all, human beings. They cannot be everywhere at once, and in order to be a crime deterrent to the degree that you imply that they would be if their numbers were increased, there would have to be a virtual police saturation as was done in New York City in certain neighborhoods. Miller Resigns at 96

Alton S. Miller, 80 Westcott Road, has decided not to accept another term on the Borough Board of Building Appeals. His present three-year term expires on April 30.

In a letter to Borough Mayor Henry S. Patterson, Mr. Miller said: "Having reached the age of 96 and my life expectation being less than the term for which I would be appointed on the Building Board of Appeals, I must ask that you select a much younger man."

Mr. Miller, an engineer by profession, has been a member of the Board ever since the Borough started keeping personnel records — probably since 1950. No successor has been named.

Beauty ON THE SQUARE

By Archimedes (Bernard)

IF THAT YOUTHFUL COMPLEXION you've been so proud of seems to be disappearing, we have a recipe for a marvelous PROTEIN CREAM that we'd like to share with you. To remove fine lines, wrinkles, crows feet, lines around mouth caused after dentures, this "cream" in test after test has proved to be next to miraculous in eliminating or arresting wrinkles. Cream must be used for approximately 5 weeks before results (amazing) can be noticed. Continued use will retard the appearance of wrinkles to an unbelieveable degree. The cream is used as a night cream and is gently massaged into the skin—in the morning excess is removed by washing with Amino-Pon shampoo.

4 oz. mayonnaise
1 oz. P.P.T.
Few drops of your favorite perfume

CAUTION: Keep in refrigerator to prevent spoilage.

The P.P.T. herein referred to, and used in ALL of REDKEN cosmetic formulations may be purchased in our TAVERNWOOD BEAUTY SALON for a nominal price in 1 oz. containers.

Our business is "beauty." We want our customers to have normal, healthy skin and hair. Your skin and hair are among your most prized possessions. To help keep them in tip-top condition, they need care. We firmly believe that the "protein" products offered by REDKEN will be just what you are looking for. P.P.T. "S-77" is a hair and skin conditioner, and FEEDS the skin and hair as well as the body.

call that it worked well as long as the police remained. As soon as they eased off, the hoodlums came out of the sewers to do business at the same old stands.

No, Mrs. Caplan, I can't feel that this is the answer. The police are doing about as much as a police force should be expected to do — their numbers are as great as is sensible or economically feasible. Thomas Jefferson said, in effect, that the best government is the least government, and I, for one, heartily agree that the private citizen is becoming much too willing to relinquish his own responsibilities to Big Brother.

This matter of protection of family, self, and property is one which requires considerable thought, especially in these days of hysterical outcries against all self-protective devices (it has been proposed by at least one of our state legislators that not only should all firearms be confiscated, but even brass knuckles should be registered! Next it will be lengths of pipe, baseball bats, and rolls of nickels).

The area of self-protection is but one of a long list of areas in which we are abdicating our personal responsibilities to GOVERNMENT . . .

It is with the individual that self-interest begins, and it is on this ground that the battle should be joined. We can't expect, nor should we desire, that government do everything for us. It would take a dozen policemen per city block and a whole battery of searchlights to provide protection which would remotely resemble complete protection.

Since it is obvious that we can't begin to approach any such conditions, we must begin to look to ourselves as our forefathers did and stop this drift toward let-somebody-else-do-it-for-me-ness. We're not children. We don't need to have Father Town Hall (County Courthouse, State House, White House) hold our hands and tell us not to be afraid.

Fractured Fractions.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Lapped by the flooodwaters of community enthusiasm, this week I idly paused over the statistics printed in your column under the somewhat magniloquent heading "Bill Bradley vs. All-Time Princeton Records." Only casual inspection was required to determine that 1253 points in an Ivy League basketball career could not yield the claimed 30.0 point average for 42 games. In fact, it produces the still impressive, but psychologically, esthetically and numerically inferior figure of 29.8 average points per game.

On looking further, it appeared that the 464 point total for 14 Ivy League games during the 1963-64 season was insufficient by one point to maintain the 33.2 game average credited by your mathematician. On the other hand, 682 points for 25 games during the 1962-63 season is an average of 27.3 points per game, rather than 26.9 average printed in your table. This latter figure would be correct for a season total of 10 points lower, which leads me to suspect that the error may not be compotatinnal but lies instead in the dimensioos of the accomplishment attributed by you to Bill Bradley for that year.

Alarmed by these discoveries, I hurriedly checked to make certain that "All-Time Princeton Records" had not been slighted to inflate further the margin by which they had been surpassed. Unfortunately, my worst fears were realized. Pete Campbell always impressed me as at least a 20.8 career Ivy League basketball player, and so he proved to be despite your downgrading of his 864 points in 42 games to a mere 20.5 average.

I hesitated before deciding to call attention to these discrepancies because the value of Bill Bradley as a person or even as a basketball player is poorly measured by statistical trivialities. However, since Princeton children of all ages will undoubtedly remember and attach significance to such numbers for some time to come, it seemed worth while to urge on you now the responsibility for their correctness. Otherwise, some future sports historian at another institution (by definition academically inferior to Princeton) may sharpen his pencil and delightedly hang an asterisk on the whole bundle.

JOHN GRAHAM
48 Linden Lane

Editor's Note: TOWN TOPICS' thanks for Mr. Graham's eagle-eyed statistical corrections on tenths of a point. All of the point totals credited to Bill Bradley were accurate; for those who care, now that the season is over, the averages he achieved are properly adjusted and Pete Campbell takes his place in history as a fully-accredited 20.6 player.

President Robert F. Goheen has announced that the structure will hooor Edward A. MacMillan, department head for 37 years. Mr. MacMillan, a member of the Class of 1914, graduated with Phi Beta Kappa honors and was an instructor at the University until 1917, when he joined the First Engineer Regiment as a second lieutenant.

Mustered out in 1919 as a captain, he returned to Princeton and became, in 1921, superintendent of the grounds and buildings department. The building was completed in 1962.

FREE COURSES OFFERED

For Home Bible Study. Three Bible correspondence courses have been made available by the Church of Christ, River Road. Home study may be selected from three offerings: "Visualized Bible Studies" (five lessons); "Searching the Scriptures" (26 lessons), and "Meet for the Master's Use" (12 lessons).

According to the minister, Ervy Boothe, the expense of the program is underwritten by the congregation.

"The purpose of the course," Mr. Boothe states, "is to give the individual a workable knowledge of the Scriptures. It is felt that there are many who would like to increase their knowledge of the Bible, but do not have adequate opportunities to do so.

Requests for one of the courses, or for further information, are directed to the Church of Christ, Box 383, Princeton.

News Of The CHURCHES

PRINCETON HAS ROLE

In Selma Church Policy. Vestrymen of Trinity Episcopal Parish learned this week that St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Selma, Ala., opened its doors on Sunday to Negroes after turning away mixed groups on the previous Sundays.

Two weeks ago, the vestry had unanimously backed the Rev. Robert R. Spears' participation in the Selma civil rights demonstrations. A copy of their strongly-worded resolution was sent to the vestry of St. Paul's.

Apparently other pressures were brought to bear, according to the Rev. Mr. Spears. "I think that what happened is that the Episcopal bishop of Alabama, and the warden and rector of St. Paul's were reminded of the canonical situation. The canons were clarified at the last Episcopal Convention, saying, in effect, that there could be no barring for reasons of race, ethnic group and so on."

St. Paul's vestry approved the open-door policy at the request of their minister, Rev. Frank Mathews, and the Rt. Rev. C.C. J. Carpenter, Bishop of Alabama.

Compliance. In a letter to his congregation, quoted in the New York Times, St. Paul's pastor said, "Our vestrymen have discussed this canon at great length. . .They do not like to have to accept it, but they love the Episcopal Church and know that the welfare of St. Paul's and the general church must come before their personal feelings."

He wrote in a second letter to the parish: "It may be of some help to all us to visualize the consequences had not this. . . compliance with the canons been adopted. As a priest of the Episcopal Church, I would have to resign as your rector. You would not be able to replace me with another Episcopal priest, since this congregation would have to dissolve its communion with the Protestant Episcopal Church, U.S.A.

"As individuals and as a group, you would no longer be Episcopalians and the Book of Common Prayer would no longer be yours. You would have to reorganize and establish yourself as an independent non-denominational congregation."

Next Step. The possible effects of St. Paul's open-door policy were discussed by the Rev. Mr. Spears: "I certainly don't think that all of a sudden St. Paul's will be an integrated church, but certainly St. Paul's is the leading white church in Selma and its action will have an effect on the others. It will also encourage the white moderates in town."

He noted that the Episcopal Society for Cultural and Racial Unity has assigned a representative to Selma for a month to serve as a contact man to follow up the progress made so far. "He will also be able to talk with St. Paul's rector. This is sort of bridging the gap."

SUNRISE SERVICE SET

By Princeton Youth. Arthur Buckland of First Presbyterian Church is chairman of the youth committee which was scheduled to meet at 7 p.m. this Wednesday at the YMCA to plan an Easter Dawn service.

The service will be held at 5:30 a.m., preceded by a morning watch at 5:15 a.m. On the agenda for the meeting are decisions as to location of the service, program, breakfast after the service and alternative arrangements in case of rain. The Princeton YMCA is co-planner.

Committee members include Beth Maxwell of Calvary Baptist Church, secretary; Verna Groo of Princeton Methodist, and James A. Rowan of St. Andrews Presbyterian Church, vice-chairmen. Present at the initial meeting were Mrs. Jack Keaton, Paul E. Corcoran, William A. Sheppard, the Rev. John B. Patterson of First Church, Walter Sorg and Francis G. Clark, YMCA general secretary.

LENTEN PREACHER: The Rev. Dr. E. Theodore Bachmann, official of the Lutheran Church in America, will lead the concluding Lenten preaching service this Sunday at First Church, under the auspices of the Princeton Pastors' Association.

TO END LENTEN SERIES

With Lutheran Service. The Rev. Dr. E. Theodore Bachmann will preach at 8 p.m. this Sunday at the last of the Princeton Pastors' Association Lenten series at First Presbyterian Church. The service will be in the Lutheran tradition.

Dr. Bachmann is executive secretary of the board of college education and church vocations of the Lutheran Church in America. He will be assisted by the Rev. Luther Kriefall of Messiah Lutheran Church, and the Rev. Albert Tyson, PPA president.

Dr. Bachman, who lives at 73 Philip Drive, was educated at Haverford College and Philadelphia Lutheran Theological Seminary. He earned a master's degree from Harvard and doctorate from the University of Chicago. After serving Lutheran parishes in Pennsylvania and Delaware, he became professor of church history at Chicago Lutheran Theological Seminary, later at Pacific Lutheran Theological Seminary. He is the author of three books.

"HOMEMADE CHRISTIANS"

St. Paul's Topic. Author Mary Reed Newland will discuss Christian family life at 8 p.m. Monday, April 12, in St. Paul's School Hall. Her topic is "Homemade Christians."

Miss Newland has written a number of books on Roman Catholic family life, among them "The Family and The Bible" and "We and Our Children." She is a frequent lecturer as well, and as the mother of seven children, brings to her work much humor, understanding and common sense.

A discussion period follows her talk. All members of the community are welcome.

TO PRESENT REQUIEM

Sung By Four Choirs. Faure's "Requiem" will be presented at 7:30 p.m. Sunday at Kingston Presbyterian Church by the combined choirs of the Sand Hills, Dayton, Monmouth Junction and Kingston churchs. Mrs. Doris B. Bowman, director of music for the Kuigston church, will conduct the concert in the sanctuary.

TO HEAR PROF. STEERE

On Modern Quakerism. Professor Douglas V. Steere of Haverford College, one of the outstanding interpreters of contemporary Quakerism, will speak at 11 this Sunday at the Friends Meeting House, Quaker Road.

He will discuss "Friends World Committee Today and Tomorrow," dealing specifically with "The Wider Quaker Fellowship." The public is invited.

Professor Steere has held the Thomas Wister Brown chair in philosophy at Haverford for many years, where he has also headed the graduate program in reconstruction and relief training. One of the two observer-delegates for the Society of Friends at the Vatican Council, he has written a series of articles from Rome.

He has been a lecturer and visiting professor at a number of theological seminaries in this country and abroad, as well as a member of Quaker missions to Scandinavia, Poland, Germany, Japan, South Africa and India. He is a member of the World Council of Churches' committee for prevention of war in the atomic age.

In addition to translating some of Kierkegaard's works into English, Professor Steere has authored "On Beginning from Within," "On Listening to Another" (Harper 1964) "Dimensions of Prayer," "Work and Contemplation," "Soil of Peace: the Human Factor in Reconstruction," and many others.

A question-and-answer period and social hour will be held in the First Day School building between 12 and 1. Light refreshments will be served. Further information and transportation arrangements may be obtained from Rose M. Scheider., 921- 9398, daily after 6 p.m.

TO SING BACH CHORALES

At First Church. J. S. Bach's "St. Matthew's Passion" will be presented at 9.30 and 11 a.m. this Sunday by the combined choirs of First Presbyterian Church. Mrs. Mary Krimmel is organist and choir director.

Soloists will be Virginia Switten, Elbie Valentine, Nancy Dodson, Lucile Lynn, Paul Conner and Edward Fox. The Rev. Dr. Donald M. Meisel, pastor, will read the part of the Evangelist. The words of Christ will be sung by Joseph McKee, a senior at Princeton High School.

The work will be divided into two parts. The first half featuring the 65-voice youth choir will be sung at 9:30, with the 48-voice adult choir singing the second part at the 11 a.m. service.

The "St. Matthew Passion," composed in 1723-1729, was first performed on Good Friday, 1729 in St. Thomas' Church, Leipzig, where Bach was cantor. Then, as now, the soloists were all regular members of the Sunday choir.

The story of the Passion is cast in a series of pictures. At points, the narrative breaks off and the scene is the subject of a meditation in the emotional music of the arias. The Chorales are introspective, providing times of meditation in contrast to the moving narrative. From the first double chorus "Come Ye Daughters" to the sad loneliness of the final "In Deepest Grief," the music is dramatic and extreme in moods. The Choruses of the non-believers are short and portray exactly the text. Many authorities consider this to be the greatest choral work ever written.

ECUMENICIST TO SPEAK

At Princeton Seminary. D T. Niles, Methodist minsister from Ceylon and a leader of the ecumenical movement, will give a public lecture at 7:45 p.m. this Thursday in Princeton Seminary's Miller Chapel.

Dr. Niles, one of the Seminary's Sequicentennial lecturers in 1963, is currently general secretary of the East Asia Christian Conference. He has been called the most effective evangelist to students of this generation. He was the opening speaker for the 1947 World Youth Conference and performed the same function a year later at the Amsterdam Assembly where the World Council of Churches was organized.

Born in 1908, he was educated at the United Theological Seminary in Bangalore, India, and holds a doctorate from the University of London. He is the author of many books, among them "Sir, I Would See Jesus," "For Today," and "We Know in Part."

RABBI TO PREACH

At Lenten Service. Rabbi Joshua O. Haberman of Har Sinai Temple, Trenton, will speak next Wednesday, April 7, at the community Lenten service sponsored by the Hopewell Council of Churches.

The service, to be held at 8 p.m. in Hopewell Methodist Church, is sixth in the series of ten Lenten services sponsored by the all-Protestant Council. Rabbi Haberman will be the first Jewish speaker to take part.

A member of the reformed branch of Judaism, Rabbi Haberman is active in the Trenton Council of Churches and other inter-faith endeavors. His topic will be "The Importance of Judaism and the Old Testament."

Last year, a precedent was set when the Rev. Edward O'Connell, pastor of St. Alphonsus' Roman Catholic Church, became the first of his faith to speak in a Hopewell Protestant church.

Lenten Services Listed

Community Lenten services are scheduled at the following churches:

Thursday 12:10-12:25 p.m. in Niles Chapel of First Presbyterian Church; the Rev. Robert R. Spears Jr. of Trinity Episcopal Church will give the meditation this Thursday; the Rev. F. Hugh Liffiton of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church is scheduled for Thursday, April 8. Luncheon served (65c) at the church 12.30 to 1 p.m.

Sunday - 8 p.m. at First Presbyterian Church, auspices of Princeton Pastors' Association. This Sunday, the Rev. Dr. E. T. Bachmann, executive secretary, Board of Theological Education, Lutheran Church in America, assisted by the Rev. Luther H. Kriefall of Messiah Lutheran Church.

Hopewell - 8 p.m. on Wednesday, sponsored by the Hopewell Council of Churches. The April 7 service will be conducted by Rabbi Joshua O. Haberman at Hopewell Methodist Church.

BULLETIN NOTES

Selma Speakers. Two returnees from the civil rights demonstrations in Selma, Ala., will address groups this week. The Rev. Dr. Lefferts A. Loetscher of Princeton Seminary is scheduled to speak before the Mission Circle of Messiah Lutheran Church at 9:30 a.m. this Thusday at the home of Mrs. Virginia Teller, Kingston.

Ted Philips will share the platform with Miss Sylvia Law at 10:45 a.m. this Sunday to discuss "Encampment for Citizenship" before the Ethical Culture Fellowship. The Fellowship meets at the Chapin School.

Kingston Women. The Women's Association of Kingston Presbyterian Church will meet at 8 p.m. Monday for a program devoted to community service. Speakers will be women engaged in community affairs. Mrs. Dorothy Scott is program chairman.

Activity Day. St. Andrew's Women's Guild will hold "Activity Day" on Monday to sew and pack clothes for Church World Service. The session is scheduled from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. Members are to bring box lunches; coffee and dessert will be provided.

We read that the odd creature, Portuguese Man-of-War, is able to manufacture a gas with which to inflate its floating "balloon," and the amount of gas is under control of the individual, so that it can sail on the surface or, by letting out gas, it may submerge and float like a submarine. The trailing poisonous tentacles have batteries of stinging cells which paralyze and kill fish which they eat. Under each "balloon" there is a colony of zooids, each an individual, but all supported by one air sac. The time to watch out for them aloog Flordia and Atlantic coast beaches runs from late fall through April, and they are just as poisonous to man when deal on the beach as when alive. Interesting information, but perhaps of more concern is how to get the best car price and top service. May we show you? Kammler Buick-Pontiac Co., Route 206 opp. Princeton Airport 921-2222.

Astonished Advertiser

NEEDED: Someone willing to clean small country house once weekly. Will transport from and to Princeton if necessary. Call 921-7327 until 10 a.m. 2-16-2t

Writing to request that the advertisement be cancelled for the second insertion, the woman who had placed it, commented,

"I received an astonishing number of replies — something like 16 or 17!"

It cost her only $1.25 to fill the job, and to be astonished as well. TOWN TOPICS has long provided the market place where those who need, seek and those who have, provide. A call to 924-2200 will get you there quickly, with any one of five helpful ad takers ready to be of assistance.

SMALL HORSE FARM

$36,000

A most unusual and unique offer is this 6.9 acre horse farm. Everything is practically new — the spacious three bedroom ranch, the large 30' x 45' barn with eight stables and the fencing surrounding the rolling pastures. Among the many added features are the carpeting in the house, extra large rooms and two wells, one for the house and one for the barn. An outstanding offer for anyone with a love of horses. Additional details upon request.

Starts Wed. Apr. 14 at the Playhouse

"MACBETH" AND LADY: Shakespeare's tragedy will play in Princeton for the last times this weekend, with performances scheduled for Thursday and Friday nights and Sunday matinee. Nicholas Kepros and Ronnie Claire Edwards have the leading roles.

News Of The THEATRES

"BAWDY, IRREVERENT"

"The Birds." Of Course. Aristophanes, that dirty playwright, will come to McCarter with "The Birds" Saturday at 8:30. It's the fifth and last production of McCarter's spring season devoted to European comedy.

McCarter will be busy all weekend, in fact, because "Macbeth" will play on Thursday at 7:30 and Friday at 8:30, and again Sunday at 3.

"The Birds" is a bawdy and irreverent satire on Athenian character. Written in 414 B.C., it will have, in this 1965 A.D. production, literal costumes, including beaks, wings and tail-feathers, all stitched together by costumer Richard Anderson. Conrad Susa, composer for the Stratford (Conn.) Festival, has written an original score.

Nicholas Kepros will lead the east in the dual roles of Euelpides and Prometheus (sandwiched in between, he will be playing the title role in "Macbeth.")

Marlo Siletti will be The Hoopoe, Clarence Felder will be Pisthetairos, Barbara Caruso will be Iris and a McCarter newcomer, Robert Ronan, will be the leader of the Chorus of Birds.

Stephen Porter, who directed "The Forced Marriage," seen last week on television's "Esso Repertory Theatre" with various members and alumni of the McCarter company, is "The Birds" director.

POOR DADDY . . .

Hanging There in the Closet. One of the finest examples of the taxidermist's art is poor old Dad, hung there in the closet by Mama and the cause of sadness on the part of a crumpy adolescent son.

"Oh Dad, Poor Dad, Mama's Hung You in the Closet and I'm Feelin' So Sad" is the spring offering of Princeton Community Players, and it will open Friday at Murray Theatre on campus for a three week-end run. Curtain - time will be 9 for this production. Tickets at Male's Book Shop or at the box-office.

"Mama" checks into a Caribbean hotel with the stuffed corpse of her husband, (we're quoting now from Norman Nadel, critic for the World Telegram and Sun) "her son, two Venus flytraps, a silver piranha fish and the disdain of a decadent empress.

"The lad, tired of fussing with his collection of stamps, coins and books, watches a girl through a home-made telescope and then goes into a panic when the girl shows up and tries to seduce him. If this plot-outline makes sense, I've not described it right."

Mildred Wasserman will play the mourning widow, Mme. Rosepettle; Tom Queenan will be Jonathan, the timid son who is kept locked in the hotel suite.

Cynthia Grauman will be Rosalie, who, once she gets a chance at Jonathan alone, — well, somebody says it's the funniest seduction scene in theatrical history. Peter McKinney will be the millionaire yachtsman, Commodore Rosebove, who rashly starts a flirtation with the widow.

Lee R. Yopp directs, and Donald Glenn Warnick Jr. is the scene designer.

When buying a Diamond...

WHAT IS MEANT BY "CLARITY"?
In diamond grading CLARITY refers to the presence or absence of flaws and blemishes. A diamond can be termed "flawless" only when no flaws are visible to a trained eye under 10 times magnification.

WHAT IS MEANT BY "COLOR"?
When you find crystal clear absence of any color in the body of a diamond it is usually of the finest quality. This is interior color, not the flashes of rainbow colors called "fire." In general, the closer a diamond approaches the absolute absence of any color, the higher it is evaluated.

WHAT IS MEANT BY "CUTTING"?
Gem cutting is a great art. Because a correctly cut and polished diamond has great refractory powers, it concentrates light and radiates an intense, flashing fire. The slightest variation from the ideal cutting of a diamond's tiny facets results in a reduction of this fire and brilliancy—and a lesser value for the finished diamond.

There is a "common sense" way to select your diamond—rely on the facts. Let us show you the overall picture of diamond value and quality. Take advantage of our vast gemological knowledge and experience. You'll find this is the wise way to select the diamond you'll be proud to give or own.

News Of The Theatres

CAN MOMMY COME, TOO? Theatre for Children. A riotous, week-long Easter vacation Children's Festival will keep the bunnies occupied from April 17 to April 25 at McCarter Theatre. Are mothers invited? Sure. Try to keep them away.

Things will get under way on Saturday, April 17 with two performances (11 a.m. and 3 p.m.) of "The Littlest Circus," the show that entranced Princeton so much when it played here in January, 1964.

On Monday, Thursday and Friday, McCarter will show five prize-winning children's films from Japan, Russia, France, Czechoslovakia and Poland.

"The Boy and the Blind Bird," a Russian film in color made in 1963, will be shown Monday, April 19 at 11 and 3.

On Thursday, April 22, McCarter will show "The Yellow Slippers," a Polish film made in color in 1962. It will be shown once, at 11.

Friday's film will be one from France, "The Kite From the Other Side of the World," made in 1956, to be shown at 11. At 7 p.m., the film will be "Skinny and Fatty," a 1959 color film from Japan. The final movie will be on Saturday, April 24 at 3. It will be a Czechoslovakian film, "Adventures in Golden Bay."

All of the films are designed for ages 6-12, although five-year olds will enjoy "Skinny and Fatty."

These are the only showings in the United States outside New York, where they will be exhibited in Town Hall as part of the New York International Children's Film Festival.

"The Travels of Krishna" will be given on Friday, April 23 at 3 by the Story Dancers of India, organized under the auspices of the Asia Society. The company of 10 dancers and musicians will introduce boys and girls to the folklore and mythology of India through the dance.

"The Concerto," the fourth and final Young People's Concert, will bring the Children's Festival to a close on Saturday, April 24 at 11 a.m.

Four guest artists will join the Princeton Chamber Orchestra in works by Bach, Dragonetti, Block and Saint-Saens. "The Carnival of the Animals" is one of the "concertos" to be featured.

A detailed brochure of times and prices for the Children's Festival, may be obtained by sending a postcard to McCarter, Box 526, Princeton.

THAT "WONDERFUL TOWN"

Tryouts Ahead. Score by Leonard Bernstein, lyrics by Betty Comden and Adolph Green, Book by Jerome Chodorov and Joseph Fields, cast by the "Princeton Junction and Back Players" — "Wonderful Town" sounds like a success already.

Tryouts for the musical will be held this week-end. Actors and singers will be heard Friday from 7 to 11 p.m. and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., in the Campus Center basement of the Seminary.

Dancers will be auditioned at McCarter Theatre Sunday at 7 p.m. Actors, singers and dancers should call the McCarter box office (921-8700) for appointments. Everyone is welcome, regardless of background or experience.

The dancing element is new this year. Joan Morton Lucas, faculty member from the Princeton Ballet Society, will audition men and women dancers on Sunday, and will be the choreographer for the show. Mrs. Lucas played "Ellie" in the 1964 "Showboat."

Jay Harnick has been chosen to direct "Wonderful Town."

PLAYHOUSE AND PRINCE

John Goldfarb, Please Come Home (opens Fri. at Prince, Sat. at Playhouse) This is the comedy that Notre Dame University would just as soon nobody went to see. Most of the film is an accumulation of wacky bits and pieces expertly strung together, ending with a fast and furious football sequence involving the Notre Dame team.

Shirley MacLaine is a magazine writer who is smuggled into the harem of Arabian king Peter Ustinov. Richard Crenna, in the title role, is a Jewish U-2 pilot who does everything wrong, including crash landing in the king's backyard. Then there is the king's number one son who has been dropped from the Notre Dame football team. He has his own football field, however, and plans a game against his old college.

Ustinov steals most of the show as the lecherous, unpredictable monarch, enchanted by harem girls, miniature railroads, belly dancers and Shirley MacLaine. There's lots of slapstick, and it's all in color.

IT'S NEW To Us

SWING THAT CAPE

Easter Suit. A swinging cape suit for Easter is the favorite of everybody this year at Robert Hall, on Route One at the Lawrenceville jug-handle.

The jacket has cape sleeves — and is, in fact, a cape, not a simulation — and a belt that holds things in, but allows the cape to swing free at the back. It's jacket length, stopping just before the hip, and cut with a tailored look and a double-breasted front.

We saw it in two soft tweeds: a willowy green and a soft, turoed-earth tan. With each there is a sleeveless overblouse, ivory in case of the green, pale tan in the other. $23.95.

Ladies who like sleeves in a jacket may choose the three-peice $19.95 suit in lime, blue and grey plaid, soft as a spring cloud, with an arnel powder blue blouse, gently tied for femininity against the tailored jacket.

Lots of pastel suits here, if you want to look like a crocus. One dusty pink has raglan sleeves, flat collar and flat wool bow. A clear pink basketweave features a deep U neck framed by a wide pointed collar. Both are $19.95.

On the yelllow rack, we found lemons and golds and butters, and ended up choosing the hopsacking with its shaggy wool flower on the wide lapel and the curved, double-breasted jacket. $18.95.

Orlon knit has been used as the basis for a three-piecer just made for spring. It has a seven-eighths coat with scarf collar and a matching blouse to go with its skirt. We found it in yellow, in pink and in a navy with a white blouse.

In the Club?

When we heard that surf clothes at The Ski were called "Hang Ten" we thought this was a brand name like "Ship'n Shore," but that only shows we're not beach babies.

"Hang ten," they tell us at the Nassau Street store means you're good enough on a surf board to hang all ten toes over the edge of the board. At once, we presume.

If you can do this — and we're not sure whether we can or not because we never even tried — you're really in the club, no matter what brand you buy.

And speaking of white, look at this snow drop-white wool with its circle of white fur low around the throat and its straight, trim little jacket. A bright red, with raglan sleeves, has black fur trim.

Navy and white houndstooth — and a good sized pup, too, makes a tailored suit with slotted belt which appears only in front.

After you've bought your own suit, you can pick out an Easter coat for your daughter. Wouldn't she love the bright, bright red with its slightly flaring lines and little up-brim matching hat with white ribbon? Both for $12.97.

Powder blue makes the background for a white fur collar lightly tipped with blue, and detachable for warm Sundays. Baby houndstooth check in black and white has red piping narrowly here and there, white stretch gloves, a little white straw bag and a checked sailor hat, all for $11.88.

Half sizes, 14½ to 24½, are always plentiful at Robert Hall, and not always grandmotherly in appearance, either. Look at the three-piece textured white knit for $12.97, or the navy wool, slightly nubbed, with its long, pointed slimming lapels ($19.95). Navy broadcloth — and this is really deep navy — has been quietly trimmed with navy satin piping and fastened with navy satin ball buttons. It's $18.

NEW WAVE COMING

Ski Turns to Water. Melting snow turns into surf at The Ski. With a weather eye on the seasons, the shop at 20 Nassau has turned to sun and shore, and tennis court. Who wants snow?

Trunks, jackets, shirts, beach towels and boards are all ready for the next big wave. "Hang ten" is the brand, and sometimes you'll find it branded on the back of a surf shirt. The trunks are "baggies," as surf fans know. This means that they are cut baggy to allow for free movement of the body. You'll find them in canvas or nylon.

Shirts are cotton knit, all cotton, sometimes with those bare feet printed on the back. The knit is a very heavy cotton to absorb wet and spray, and to provide needed warmth. Colors are strong primaries, with contrasting stripes going around the middle, so they can see you from the shore.

Jackets are designed to wear after you reach the beach, and they are heavy poplins in stripes like the shirts.

At The Ski, you can buy a board to your own weight and specifications, or however you buy surf-boards: we aren't quite sure, but they know at The Ski, take if from us.

Incidentally, these are men's and boys' clothes. Women's surf costumes are usually very, very Bikini, and The Ski is a bit squeamish about stocking them as yet. Maybe they'll wait and see about the demand.

For tennis, The Ski has Fred Perry, Townway, and Aspen clothing, and this year there will be more in the way of women's casual sports wear, like golf dresses, Bermudas, Jamaicas, and creations from Ulla and Austin-Hill.

A whole curving rack of tennis dresses makes it hard to choose which one. We like the pleated model in white with the yellow tulips in a straight hem row, one on each pleat. Dresses are dacron and cotton, white pique or a delightful jacquard with tennis racquets in white on white. One dress, in two pieces, has palest blue hiding behind the pleats, ready to swing out when you serve.

News Of The Theatres

THE GARDEN

Psycho (through Tues.), first released in 1960, is one of Alfred Hitchcock's best. It tells a story of the unveiling of a psychopathic murderer, who has done in two victims before the picture begins, kills two more on the screen and tries to kill two others, but fails.

All of the Hitchcock shock techniques are abundantly in evidence. And both of the murder scenes are unusually brutal.

The cast includes Anthony Perkins, Janet Leigh, Vera Miles and John Gavin.

NEW STRAND

Cleopatra (Starts Thursday for one week, matinees 2 p.m. Sun. & Wed.) Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton in a script which lies closer to Plutarch than Shakespeare.

Rex Harrison is superb as Caesar. The greatest credits for this film, however, should be divided between the excellent characterizations seen in the minor roles and the extraordinarily fascinating backgrounds. First released in 1963.

TWO TO GO

With "Vertigo," Two more Hitchcock's remain in McCarter's retrospective of the director's ceriest and best. "Vertigo," with James Stewart and Kim Novak, will be shown Tuesday at 8 at McCarter, and "North by Northwest" with Cary Grant, James Mason and Eva Marie Saint, will be shown the following Tuesday, April 13, also at 8.

"Vertigo" is one of Hitchcock's latest, having been filmed in 1958. A color film, it tells about a young detective who has an abnormal fear of heights.

MY ACT FOR YOURS

McCarter in Exchange. An artistic liaison has been established between McCarter's repertory company and the Great Lakes Shakespeare Festival of Lakewood, Ohio.

As a starter, McCarter's executive director, Arthur W. Lithgow, will take three of McCarter's present spring plays to Lakewood for the summer: "Macbeth," "School for Wives" and "The Rivals."

In return Lakewood will send to Princeton next fall one or more of the three Shakespeare plays it will do this summer. "A Midsummer Night's Dream," "Coriolanus" and or "Henry VI." Which plays, will be up to the Princeton administration, Mr. Lithgow said. He is artistic director for the Great Lakes Festival.

"A basic artistic continuity which will allow an actor to grow and mature in his roles over a more extended period of time than is normally possible, will be the most important value in this exchange of productions," Mr. Lithgow said.

He also pointed out that eventually, there will be one permanent acting company playing in both locations.

"This form of cultural exchange will attract larger audiences to both theatrical operations," commented William B. Edwards, chairman of Princeton's Faculty Policy Committee for McCarter. He noted that the longer period of employment would be much more attractive to actors than short-term engagements.

The only similar arrangement is that between the University of Michigan and the Phoenix Theatre, New York, whereby the APA company presents a fall season at Ann Arbor before taking the same productions to New York.

NOTRE DAME NEMESIS: Shirley MacLaine raises considerable hob with the Notre Dame football team in the well-publicized film, "John Goldfarb," due this week at the Prince and the Playhouse.

Sizes in tennis dresses are 6 to 16, by the way, and if you prefer shorts and white cotton knit shirts, you can have those, too, from the looms and design boards of Fred Perry.

Racquets come from Davis and Wilson, and The Ski does its own stringing, on 24 hour notice, if you wish.

Sun too hot? A pique hat with an all-round brim will keep it off and so will a visor, all alone, or a cap with a visor.

WALL TO WALL PAPER

From Greeff. The loviest clay "muddy" colors have been achieved by the traditionalists who design for Greeff wallpapers and fabrics, and if you are already familiar with Greeff, you'll want to see the full line now at Home Furnishings on Witherspoon.

If you are new to the warmth of traditional Colonial patterns, do stop in to examine these selections. They are authentic Colonial designs and colors, most of them. The ones that aren't are faithful adaptations of 16th and 17th century designs, and as we say, the colors are particularly noteworthy. They'll remind you of the difference between vegetable and chemical dyes in their subdued softness.

These papers and fabrics are equally suitable as backgrounds for informal pine and cherry, or the formalities of 18th century mahogany and silver.

Old Stone Mill has also sent along its traditional old designs in wall papers, and to say that one book is called "Old Sturbridge Village" gives you an idea of epoch and design.

To move ahead a century or two, Home Furnishings presents a group of modern area rugs, 3x5, 4x6, 6x9 and 6x12, in wool with an irregular stripe that combines both hooked and cut pile textures in a most ingratiating manner. The stripes have been so arranged in width and insertion that one will suddenly appear in the pattern like a spear, and then vanish. Colors are golds and yellows, a fine combination of kelly, sapphire and olive, and a muted group of beige and tan. To give you an idea of price, the 3 x 5 is $28.15.

On the slip-cover side, Home Furnishings suggests any of its 22 colors in an antique satin for $7.70 a yard or its cotton antique satin for only $4 — and it's good, tough fabric, too, not inclined to pull and haw.

Old-fashioned fabrics, to match your Tiffany glass, are coming back this spring. Matelassee in a rich cinnamon toast, or velvet with an irregular tone-on-tone stripe. You can even find double-faced velvet like the kind your grandmother used for portieres.

A wide-open woollen weave like the Scandinavian patterns you are familiar with, returns to Home Furnishings in a casement fabric that's rough-textured to look at, but smooth to the touch. What could be better for drapes?

"THIS'LL MAKE YOU TALK!" Truth serum is about to be injected into an innocent victim, helplessly bound to a chair. It's a scene from a James Bond movie being filmed by a group of teen-agers just for fun. David de Mauro is about to shoot is about to shoot Lora Englemann while cameraman Richard Smith shoots them both. (Actually, David plays Bond in the movie, but he graciously consented to pose as the villain just for this shot. (Staff Photo)

LIGHTS! CAMERA!

Teens Make Movie. It's Agent 007 on the prowl again. This time he's stalking a mad doctor through the boiler rooms and corridors of Educational Testing Service and chasing him down Stony Brook on a raft.

The movie is a James Bond thriller-diller called "Precursor I.C.C. 1191353", now in production under the directorial guidance of Richard Smith, Hun School student who lives in Griggstown and shoots monster and spy films in his spare time the way other boys shoot baskets.

" 'Suspense Films to Order,' I guess that's what you'd call us," Richard grins, "this is our fourth film. We've got two monster films in the can, and a third is in California because we submitted it to the Famous Monsters of Filmtown magazine contest and never got our print back."

Richard's colleagues, all from Princeton High, are David Shimberg, Peter Engelmann, David Kohut, Robert Sutphin, Gregory Whitehorn, Douglas Craig, David de Mauro, Charles McHugh, and David Olsen. If girls are needed—a necessary evil sometimes in the course of plotting a script—Richard uses Peter's older sister, Lora, and Anne Bretnall, both from Princeton High, but mostly it's strictly for the boys.

Shoot from the Hip. "'A script? Uhhhhh—yeah, I think we have a script. Anybody bring a copy of the script today? Guess we left it at home." Richard, who wrote the script, doesn't seem concerned. One member of the production staff says, "Mostly we film pot-luck style. Each of us has some ideas for the story and we just pool the whole mess."

It was a little hard to trace the plot outline from Saturday's shooting schedule (Shooting is always done on Saturdays for obvious academic reasons.)

At one point, Bond, played by David de Mauro, come around the corner of an ETS building, in full battle dress with a couple of side-kicks similarly attired. All were carrying fearsome weapons.

"We buy toy guns and then paint them up to be very realistic," Richard explains in an aside, and David de Mauro pulls from his pocket a genuine blank pistol.

With Muffled Oar. Well, anyway, the cast had just come up from the banks of Stony Brook where they had secretly and silently made it to shore in a rubber liferaft. All were dry. Peter who plays the part of 008, was explaining why he hadn't been on the raft.

"I wasn't a coward. I was smart: that thing was leaking."

"Yeah," one crew member said, "it's a fully-equipped life raft: equipped with two machine guns, two paddles and two leaky valves."

Inside, the action seems to center around a robot whose name is the same as the film: "Precursor" . . . etc. David Shimberg plays Frankenstein to this fellow. Precursor, ten feet tall, has a head made of papier mache with a Hallowe'en bug mask for a face. For antennae, he has real antennae, what else? (From a car radio, to all appearances.)

His chest is a hot-air vent from somebody's living-room, and his abdominal cavity is largely filled with a toy electric builder set full of flashing lights, buttons, switches and goodness' knows what all.

Mostly Precursor is operated by David Olsen, who slips his hands into the sleeves and the claw-like gloves, and who maneuvers the legs and feet. Quite a boy. Precursor, that is. He is especially effective when he stomps about among the pipes and tanks and metal stairways of the ETS boiler room. Scares the dickens out of you.

On Film. Filming of all these scenic wonders is done by Richard with an 8mm Bell and Howell. Eschewing the current vogue for hand-held cameras in off-the-cuff shooting, he uses a tripod. Indoor scenes are filmed with two standard movie lamps. For "Precursor", Richard and crew are using a tape recorder for the first time. The three previous films were all silents.

Why Educational Testing Service, aside from its obviously photogenic boiler room? Well, it just happens that David Shimberg's father is on the staff, and you know how important pull is in the movie business. Maybe ETS will get a free print.

BLACK TO TALK

At College Club Meeting. Prof. Cyril E. Black will speak on the communist revolution Monday at the April meeting of the College Club of Princeton.

Dr Black is a professor of Russian history at Princeton University and is in charge of the committee on regional studies which provides supervision of programs at Princeton in Near Eastern, East Asian, Russian and Latin American studies. Professor Black has been at the University since 1939 and in 1958 was a member of a United States delegation which observed election to the supreme soviet in Russia.

WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT:
Chief Justice
by Alpheus T. Mason

The only man ever to be both President of the U. S. and Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, William Howard Taft was one of the most paradoxical figures in American political history. At a time when the Supreme Court is the focus of attention from all points of the political compass, this scholarly and highly readable study is sure to command major attention.

About the Author: Professor Alpheus T. Mason is one of the best-known authorities on constitutional law in the U. S. — is the author of 18 books, including biographies of Justices Brandeis and Stone. Prof. Mason has been on the faculty of Princeton University since 1925 and McCormick Professor of Jurisprudence since 1947.

PROGRAMS PLANNED

In Trampoline, Skin-Diving. Applications are now being accepted for skin-diving instruction for boys 11 years old through high school age at the YMCA.

The eight-week course will begin on Tuesday, April 20, from 7 to 9 in the association's pool. Fundamentals will be taught with a continual stress on safety factors.

A trampoline class for men and women is scheduled to begin on Wednesday and will continue for a total of eight weeks. Registrations from both beginning and advanced pupils are now being accepted.

LICENSE IS SUSPENDED

For Drunken Driving. Eberhard M. Rosenblad, 22, 7 Edgerstoune Road, has had his license suspended by the Division of Motor Vehicles for six months for driving in Florida while intoxicated.

Two Princeton drivers lost their licenses for speeding in Connecticut under a reciprocity agreement. They are Helen P. Chabet, 48, 220 Edgerstoune Road, one month, and Anthony G. Lauck, 21, Lawrenceville Road, 30 days.

Also surrendering licenses for speeding are Richard L. Balint, 30, Line Road, Belle Mead, and Rome Wiskirchen, 72, 199 Nassau Street. Each was grounded for 30 days.

LOANS OFFERED

By Princeton Kiwanis. The Kiwanis Club of Princeton will again offer loans of up to $350 for a year's study to high school seniors in the area who plan to attend college next year.

Total loans for a four-year period may exceed $1,400. No interest is charged until after graduation and no repayment of principal is due until one year after the student has completed his education. The loans are payable over a six-year period after graduation.

Any student in a public, private or parochial school who is a resident of the Princeton area is eligible. Seven residents have received loans in the three years of the program.

Financial assistance will be given on a basis of need, desire on the part of the prospective recipient to complete a college education and his belief in self-help. Requests for applications may be mailed to Stephen P. Hritz, P. O. Box 1000, Princeton.

Members of the student loan committee who are members of Kiwanis are Harold E. Miller, William H. White and Morton Kline, representing the public are Carl R. Pope and Dr. Glen R. Simmons. Funds for the program are provided by the club from proceeds of its film adventure series.

VISITS PLANNED

For Negroes, Whites. The Princeton Association for Human Rights will begin a program this month designed to establish personal contacts between Negro and white citizens in the area.

Participants in the program will meet in small groups in private homes for an evening of "frank talk on racial questions," according to the organization. The program will attempt to acquaint whites and Negroes both with each other's attitudes and problems.

Irving Newlin, the association's president, set the "people-to-people" plan as one of his main goals when he took office on February 15. "Much has been done in Princeton," he said, "to break down the walls of formal segregation. But there is still very little contact between the two races."

The idea of establishing such

I WEIGH 350 POUNDS!

Want a Tug of War? Boso and Hoso, the clowns, will take on any group of children not exceeding 350 pounds in a tug of war as part of the entertainment planned for the YMCA Spring Carnival Saturday.

The gaiety will begin at the "Y" at 11 and continue until 4. Planned strictly for the boys and girls, the Carnival will have more than 20 booths of games, including sponge throws, fishing, darts and balloons, baseball accuracy and tests of strength.

Miniature cars will race, the trampoline will bounce, the teeter boards will see-saw and the very foundations of the "Y" will reverberate. Besides all these, there will be a science show demonstration, archery, basketball, and bowling.

In the "Y" pool, youngsters will have a chance to dive for pennies, race in tubs, go on canoe rides and participate in all kinds of swim races for various levels of ability.

The Carnival will be held, rain or shine. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

TO COLLECT ARTICLES

For Lions Club Sale. The West Windsor Lions Club will pick up items for its upcoming auction on Saturday from 10 a.m. through the afternoon.

The club can use articles ranging from china and furniture to household appliances and workshop utensils. Receipts for tax deduction purposes will be distributed.

TO OFFER GRANTS

For Post School Training. The Youth Employment Service will offer grants to students in the Princeton area once again this year.

Those interested in training after completion of their high school education may apply for funds by obtaining a blank at either the Princeton High School guidance office or at the employment service on 120 John Street. The scholarship program is supported by area residents and has received financial aid from the Jaycee Football Classic of 1964.

The service awarded six grants ranging from $75 to $720. Those receiving the stipends received specialized training in such fields as graphic arts, secretarial work and auto mechanics.

The organization has not set a deadline for submitting applications. Mrs. L. V. Silvester Jr. is the president of the service.

INSTITUTE PLANNED

For History Teachers. Princeton University will conduct a six-week institute for 40 high school American history teachers from New Jersey this summer.

Supported by a grant from the Federal government, the institute will be held from July 5 through August 13. The program is open to teachers from public and private schools who instruct in the 11th and 12th grades.

Prof. Robert A. Lively of Princeton's history department will direct the institute. Selection's for the program will be made by the University's history department. Each participant will be paid $75 a week with housing and meals available at a modest fee.

ROOM NAMED FOR LEWIS

At Nassau Inn. The last owner of the old Nassau Inn, William R ("Buster") Lewis has been honored by having a new conference room at the present Nassau Inn named in his memory.

Dedication ceremonies were held Wednesday. Among the friends of Mr. Lewis who were present were several members of the Princeton University Class of 1912, who had made him an honorary member of the class.

The old Nassau Inn was on Nassau Street where the entrance to Palmer Square is now. Mr. Lewis sold the Inn in 1937 when Edgar Palmer began to create Palmer Square, and when the new Nassau Inn was built, Mr. Lewis became its first manager. He retired in 1950.

Born in Hopewell, "Buster" Lewis started his career as a member of the staff of the old Nassau Inn in 1908, when the enterprise was owned by John Renwick. With the late Louis R. Vogel, Mr. Lewis eventually bought the Inn from Mr Renwick, and became the sole proprietor after Mr. Vogel's death.

Mr. Lewis was a Borough Councilman for two terms, from 1941 through 1946, and was president of Council for part of that time.

The new Lewis Room will accommodate 75 people. It has built-in blackboard, adjustable spotlights for lecture purposes and all facilities for motion picture projection. With the addition of the Lewis Room, the Nassau Inn now has nine conference rooms.

PLANNER TO SPEAK

Before Chamber. Fred W. Goodwin, planning consultant to Mercer County, will address the research and development committee of the Chamber of Commerce Monday noon at the Nassau Inn's University Room.

Mr. Goodwin will outline performance standards in air pollution, liquid and solid wastes, radiation hazards, noise and vibration, fire and explosion hazards, heat and glare, drawing from his booklet, "Industry as a Good Neighbor," a guide to industrial performance standards issued by Mercer for its municipalities.

Representatives of planning boards of the 13 municipalities in the Princeton area have been invited to attend. Luncheon reservations may be made by calling the Chamber at 921-7676.

IN PRESIDENT'S CLUB

For High Insurance Sales. Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Company has elected Richard A. Dahl of Princeton Junction to the 1965 President's Club, composed of agents who have produced more than $1 million of life insurance per year.

Mr. Dahl is managing director of Essential Planning Associates, 1 Palmer Square, and district manager for Massachusetts Mutual. EPS specializes in financial planning for business and individuals.

ETS HONORS 25

For Long Service. Educational Testing Service honored 25 staff members for their years of service at a dinner last week. Gifts were presented to 14 employees who have been with the firm 15 years and to 11 staff members who have worked at ETS for 10 years.

Those celebrating 15-year anniversaries were William H. Angoff, Mrs. Robert T. Bell, Arthur L. Benson, Paul B. Diederich, Mrs. Braxton Ellerbe, Mrs. Anthony Friel, Mrs. John McCool, Miss Rose Pirone, Miss Evelyn E. Wicoff, all of Princeton; Myron K. Barrett Jr. of Hopewell, Louis M. Kozma of Franklin Park, Mrs. J. Howard Carrabrants of New Brunswick and Mrs. Joseph J. Felsch and Mrs. Andrew Rostas Jr. of Trenton.

Honored for 10 years of service were Mrs. Leo J. Brannick, Harry C. Mernagh, Mrs. Margaret H. Nevin, John R. Valley, Mrs. Earl L. Wilbur, Mrs. Ronald Yates, all of Princeton; Fred I. Godshalk and Mrs. Mike Kostue of Princeton Junction, Mrs. Frank A. Nini of Rocky Hill, Miss M. Lois Peterson of Highland Park and Mrs. William Staib of Trenton.

ASST. MANAGER NAMED

Mothers, teach your children: If there's an emergency, dial the operator.

They'll probably never need to. But if something should happen while they're home alone, your youngsters will be able to get help in a hurry.

Why not hold a simple training session today? Point out the number 0, and show the children how to dial 0 for operator.

And older children, who can read, should know about the inside front cover of the telephone directory where the blanks are for emergency numbers. Have you filled them in? When these numbers are immediately available, moments that make a difference can be saved.

An important point—remember to train all the children to give their names, their address and town when reporting any emergency or calling for any help.

It's good to know: when you have a phone, there's always a grown-up around.

The operator.

HILBISH RESIGNS

To Join Michigan Faculty. Thomas Hilbish, under whose leadership the Princeton High School choir won international recognition, has resigned to become associate professor of music at the University of Michigan.

The Borough Board of Education granted Mr. Hilbish a leave of absence in January to work in Michigan's music department. He returns around April 25.

Mr. Hilbish has served in the Borough school system for 17 years. The high school choir, under his direction, was the official United States entry at the West Berlin Festival in 1962. In the summer of 1964, the choir sang by invitation at the International Music Educators' Conference at Budapest and at the Spoleto Music Festival. At these and other concerts throughout Europe, the choir won critical acclaim.

Mr. Hilbish, who lives at 119 Jefferson Road, was graduated from the University of Miami in 1941 with a degree in music. He received his master's degree from Westminster Choir College. He will teach choral music and conducting at the University of Michigan.

Dr. T. Darrah Thomas of Faculty Road has received an unrestricted grant for basic research from the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation. Dr. Thomas, an assistant professor of chemistry at Princeton University, will use the aid for studies of nuclear fission.

Thomas Hilbish

Dr. John A. Wheeler of 30 Maxwell Lane has been selected to receive the Albert Einstein Medal by the trustees of the Lewis and Rosa Strauss Memorial Fund. Dr. Wheeler, professor of Physics at Princeton, will receive $5,000 and a gold medal with the head of Einstein engraved on it.

Sir Hugh S. Taylor of 41 Gulick Road has received an honorary doctor of science degree from the University of San Francisco. Sir Hugh is dean emeritus of the Princeton graduate school and president of the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation.

The Textile Research Institute will preseot its highest award to Dr. Eugene Pacsu of 152 Winant Road. Dr. Pacsu, professor of chemistry emeritus at Princeton, will receive an honorary fellowship, comparable to an honorary degree.

C. Ernesto S. Lindgren of 303 Ninianne Boulevard has received $1,650 from the United States Steel Corporation in support of his work in four-dimensional descriptive geometry. Mr. Lindgren is a visiting research engineer in Princeton department of graphics and engineering drawing.

A Danforth graduate fellowlowship has been awarded to Devin Fitch of 121 Red Hill Road. One of 127 winners among more than 1,800 college seniors, he is a philosophy major at Swarthmore College. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle C. Fitch, and a 1961 graduate of Princeton High School.

Joseph B. Stevens Jr. of Province Line Road has been named president of Harry M. Stevens, Inc., nation-wide catering concern.

Many of the largest sports arenas in the United States are provided with food and drink, ranging from pop corn and hot dogs to full course dinners, by the Stevens enterprises. Operations are conducted in baseball parks, football stadiums, flat, trotting and dog tracks in states ranging from Massachusetts and Vermont in New England to Florida in the South and Arizona and California in the Far West.

Among the principal locations served are Shea Stadium in New York, Fenway Park in Boston and Candlestick Park in San Francisco. The old Polo Grounds, original home of the Giants, was one of the first baseball parks served by the catering firm in its infancy.

Mr. Stevens has been with the family business for more than a quarter century. He is a graduate of Andover and Yale.

Dr. Joseph J. Hanak of 831 Lawrence Road has received the John Reobling Award from the Delaware Valley section of the American Society for Metals for his research on the vapor deposition of niobium-stannide. ONE BELLYFUL NOT ENOUGH? In disapproving of the use of non-lethal gas in Viet Nam by the United States, Alex Donald said, in part, that he thought the world had had a 'bellyful'of gas after World War I. For more on topic, which spawned an international controversy, see below.

Question of the Week

Question: What is your opinion of the United States using non-lethal gas in Viet Nam?

Where asked: Nassau Street.

Alexander Donald, 54 Patton Avenue, parts manager for Prince Chevrolet: I don't approve of it. One thing leads to another. This leaves the door wide open for other countries to do the same. It's a dangerous step to take — where do you draw the line? Gas is terrible stuff. I thought the world had a bellyful in World War I, but apparently it didn't.

Edward Fry, 302 Nassau Street, teacher, art and architecture, Princeton University: I don't think it's such a terrible, horrible thing. I can see the logic of its use. Certainly it's more humane than killing people. The only reason we're so interested is that it stirs up a lot of memories of poison gas in World War I; people fear genocide and rumors circulating about of secret research on germ warfare by the Americans and the Eastern Bloc. All this simply touches a very sensitive nerve.

Mrs. Gregory Vlastos, Random Road, housewife: I do not think that any people can be coerced to support the army of an occupying power by the use of napalm and vomit-producing gas. Such use will defeat its own purposes and drive them into the opposite camp. Can we imagine our being converted to Communism if they used it on us? Particularly when children and innocent parties are equally victimized; it may be non-lethal but I can't believe that it's harmless. In the long run, I think it would be unpatriotic to continue its use.

Lawrence Charoy, Graduate College, chemistry: I approve. I don't see what the big issue is. It seems to be something concocted. It's really nothing that terrible — just tear gas with some nauseating agent, if we can believe The New York Times. The whole uproar started in Britain's House of Commons . . . the Leftist element got a little out of hand. Then the Chinese got hold of it. At first they didn't realize what a tremendous opportunity for propaganda this was. Now they're capitalizing on it.

Douglas Craig, 537 Stockton Street, Princeton High sophomore: I'm in favor of it. There should be as little killing as possible and any weapon that can be used effectively without shedding blood, I'm in favor of.

Mrs. Charles Biddle, Rosedale Road, housewife: Certainly the Geneva Convention doesn't outlaw it and I don't see any reason why — if its use has been carefully considered, as I'm sure it has — it shouldn't be used. After all, it is used here to control riots, and it isn't lethal.

Alan Ebner, Linden Lane, graduate student: I approve of it. I think, as the Secretary of State said, it's a humane way of accomplishing a purpose — if it works! There seems to be some discussion if it really is effective or not.

Eugene M. Pasieka, Roslyn, Pa., district manager for National Federation of Independent Business: I can only go by what I've heard on television, but my personal opinion is if this is everything they say it is, if it doesn't leave any harmful lasting effects such as World War I gases, and if they could continue fighting a war where you're just going to make people sick — I think you'd have a pretty good war.

Henry R. Wickenden, Park Avenue, Pennington, computer consultant: I feel I'm opposed. If it's a war, fight it with every weapon available, but if it is one of these so-called police actions, I think you are treading in dangerous water if you use gas which is supposed to be forbidden. I know they say this gas isn't lethal, but where do you draw the line?

Anthony Schsunel, Lawrence Township, sales clerk, The Thorne Pharmacy: The Geneva Convention says nations are not supposed to use at all. The United States preaches following the rules of the Convention and I feel we are breaking those rules now. This doesn't count, they say, because this gas isn't lethal, that it's been used for years in riot control. . . well, I still don't believe in the use of any gas. They say they don't want to kill civilians; they killed millions of them in World War II when they dropped the A bombs.

Walter Craig, 50 Pardoe Road, member, U. S. Army: I think, considering the situation that they might as well use it, as it has been used in riot control in many countries already. Certainly, as it has been stated by our government officials, it is better to use riot control gas than bombs or whatever other means there are of killing people. I don't disapprove in the least.

Rodney Hunter, Princeton Theological Seminary student: I don't think it is particularly significant from a military point of view; the same gas has been used in civil disturbances in this country and in others. However, I think the propaganda significance that has been made of it is something we certainly will have to consider. I feel this outweighs any military advantage and for that reason I would not advocate its use. Neither would I advocate fighting in Viet Nam at all.

Tugrul Yasar, 412-A Devereux Avenue, graduate student, electrical engineering: It's all right but the propaganda is bad. People first hear the word 'gas' and they react to that. They don't care if its lethal or not. It is very, very bad anti-propaganda for the United States. On the other hand, instead of killing so many innocent villagers, if you can just make them nauseous and ineffective so you can then do whatever you want, it is a good idea. I think it should be stopped, though, on the basis of the bad propaganda.

SPRING NOTES

Baseball Season to Open. The picturesque, windswept diamond named in honor of the late Bill Clarke will provide the setting next Wednesday for the home opening of Princeton's 95th baseball season. The University of New Hampshire will provide the opposition and at 4 o'clock on the afternoon of what will very probably be a chill April day, the children rolling down the banks and the dogs barking at them will outnumber the spectators, 5 to 1.

Bill Clarke, the lean, gnarled one-time Baltimore Oriole catcher, would be saddened to see the changes that have overtaken baseball at Princeton. Time was, at University Field, when opening day would draw a crowd upwards of 1,000, and as the weather improved and a good Tiger nine faced a tough opponent on a bright spring Saturday, between two and three thousand fans would be on hand to cheer for the Orange and Black.

That, of course, was in the days before televised baseball and before the many other counter-attractions that have changed today's way of life. It was also a time when baseball was considerably better played at Princeton than it is today—a trend that is contrary to most other sports, in which the calibre of competition and ability is normally on the increase.

Following the week-long, four-team tournament at Rollins College, Princeton will play its first game of the official portion of its 1965 schedule Tuesday at Villanova. The contest with UNH will follow, while the first Eastern League game is set with Army on Clarke Field on Saturday, April 10

Little Pitching, No Hitting. From last year's team which won 8 and lost 15 while tying for seventh place in the Eastern League, the Tigers have one good pitcher, one .300-plus hitter. Lefthander Tom Scott won five of the team's eight last year as a sophomore, is good enough to take most of the teams he faces with average support in the field and at bat.

After Scott, there is John Redpath, a varsity holdover who has good control, and a sophomore, Graham Marcott, who was 4-3 with Dick Vaughan's freshmen. On offense, Captain Jack Singer is a real hitter with fair power, and third baseman Wally Uhle, last season's captain in his junior year, qualifies as a good man in the clutch.

Ron Landeck, tabbed as the starting tailback on next fall's Tiger eleven, will return at shortstop, with Pete Riley, the punter, taking over again at first base. Singer is the right fielder, Frank Bloodt returns at center, and jobs are open to left, at second base and catcher.

Lacrosse Team Loses. A 2-1 lead at the end of the first quarter was merely a mirage Saturday as the lacrosse team fell before Maryland, 14 to 4. The eager Terrapins started slowly but moved out to a 5-2 advantage by half-time and finished the third quarter with a 10-3 rout on their hands.

The Tigers had more defensive problems than they had anticipated, Maryland controlling play completely in the final half. One of the Princeton goals was scored by Bob Mueller, a PCD alumnus.

This weekend, it will be Johns Hopkins at Baltimore as the Tigers take on the nation's best in their traditional preparation for the Ivy League race. Navy will be here a week from Saturday, providing a doubleheader against the service teams, with the Tiger nine playing Army the same afternoon on adjacent Clarke Field.

BRADLEY vs. RUSSIANS?

He May Play One More Game. There is a possibility that Bill Bradley may play one more basketball game before he graduates from Princeton.

The Tigers' captain has been asked by the Amateur Athletic Union to try for a berth on the United States team which will meet a touring Russian quintet later this month. Ivy League regulations forbid post-season competition in games which are of an exhibition nature, but Princeton University will seek an exception to the ruling inasmuch as the competition is on an international level, and the Soviet squad will come to this country under sponsorship of the State Department.

Four, and possibly five, games are on the schedule, but Bradley will play in only one of them—provided the Ivy League agrees. Because of academic commitments, he will see action only when the two teams play in St. Louis, which is close to his home town of Crystal City, Mo. The game is listed for Friday, April 30.

Tryouts are scheduled for April 9, with games set for Seattle, San Fransieo, Los Angeles and possibly Indianapolis during the last ten days of April. While Bradley is among the top 26 top amateurs in the U. S. invited to try out for the American team, expectations are that if Princeton grants permission for him to play, he would automatically qualify as the captain of last year's Olympic champions.

The University last week did not seek exemption from the ban on post-season exhibition contests when Bradley was withheld from the annual East-West game in Lexington, Ky. If partial clearance for his participation in the game at St. Louis is granted, it will be on the basis of the international aspect of the series.

A LOOK AHEAD

At Next Basketball Season. Any attempt to estimate Princeton's strength in basketball without Bill Bradley is like trying to visualize the front campus with Nassau Hall gone. The gap is simply too great to imagine.

Nonetheless, the 1965-66 season will open on schedule—possibly a bit earlier if the teams which have been waiting to get at the Tigers after their All-American has graduated have their way. At Yale, Penn and Cornell, during the Bradley era, some considerably better than average basketball teams have been left in the ruck by the quintets that Big Man paced to three straight Ivy titles and,

this season, dominaion of the eotire East.

All three of these colleges will have a shot at the title next season, with Columbia possibly also in the running if its 7-1 freshman Dave Newmark, recovers from the injury to his hand sustaioed when a glass door shattered and cut it severly. Neither the Lioos nor Princeton, incidentally, appear to be the future alma mater of Lew Alcindor, the nation's most sought-after schoolboy; the seven-foot wonder has reportedly narrowed his final choice down to St. John's, N.Y.U., Boston College, Michigan and UCLA.

Cornell, which woo 15 in a row before dropping the final three games on its schedule, will have all but one key member of that team back. The big loss is 5-10 Dave Bliss, who threw in 28 points in his final Dillon Gym appearance. Gone, too, will be 6-5 Marv Van Lecuwen and 6-6 Jim Magliscau, but the makings of another strong team will remain at Ithaca.

Penn not only is also lightly touched by graduation but had the best freshman team among the strong Big Five in the Philadelphia area, including a 6-10 center. The Quakers lose Captain Bruce Moore and Fred Greene as starters but have Jeff Neuman and Stan Pawlak, all-Ivy choices for two years, back as the core of their next team.

Yale loses back courtman Bob Trupin, its high scorer, and its captain, 6-5 Don Taylor, but had the best freshman team among the Ivies - a collection of whiz kids good enough to beat Princeton (13 and 3) by 25 points. The Elis will make trouble for anyone with this sophomore strength but appear to be a year away from a stretch run for the title.

Tigers Lose ONLY One. It is, of course, true that Princeton won its third straight title with only one senior in its starting lineup. The question, however, is not who the fifth man will be to go with juniors Bill Haarlow and Don Rodenbach and sophmores Robby Brown and Gary Walters, but what can be done to adjust for Bradley's loss and how long will it take.

KEY FIGURE: 6-9 Robby Brown, figures largely in Princeton's basketball plans for next season. He came along fast enough as a sophomore to be named to all-tournament team at NCAA regional finals.

Gone with Bradley will be two others, Billy Kingston and Don Roth, who steadied many a late-game defense with their backcourt ability and all-around poise. Whether any player save Walters on next year's squad can stand up against an all-court press remains to be seen; nothing comparable, obviously, to the Bradley-Kingston-Roth combine will be found.

Of the varsity holdovers, certainly Ed Hummer and possibly Bill Koch have the jump for a starting assignment over the upcoming freshman crop. Rarely has a player matured as steadily as Hummer did from his early games last winter to the all-around role he played in coming off the bench during the latter half of the Ivy season and the climactic NCAA contests. Koch, high-scorer on the 1963-64 freshman team, was injured a good part of the past winter, but is a solid man under the boards in addition to his natural scoring ability.

Of this year's freshmen (who lost to Villanova and Columbia, in addition to Yale), the three best bets for a place in the varsity picture next season appear to be Joe Heiser, John Haarlow and Dave Lawyer. With Bradley as the inevitable measuring stick, Heiser's 329 points were second only to Bradley's first-year total; Haarlow's 207 rebounds (including a fantastic 24 in one game) were within 15 of Bradley's total as a freshman.

An accurate shot from all parts of the court, Heiser averaged 20.6 points, reaching a one-game high of 36. Belief is that he will have the ability to help break up a zone defense with his outside shooting.

"Little" brother of Bill and Bob, at 6-6 John Haarlow handles himself well for his height, lacking the tendency to draw frequent fouls that many a big man does. He averaged 17 points this season and will provide good rebounding ability with Brown and Hummer.

A high-school All-American as was Hummer, 6-2 Dave Lawyer is an extremely agile forward who will fit in not only as a good ball handler but as a player adept at the type of tight defense Bill van Breda Kolff teaches. He also has the speed to pace the fast break for which the Tiger coach is noted.

Steve Pajcic 5-10 will add to the bench depth, ready to provide good defense and capable dribbling. Added height will come from 6-5, 215 lb. Bob Heuer, center on the past winter's freshman team.

Good as it was at the finish, the 1965 Princeton quintet took a number of weeks before Bradley's superb ability was properly blended with the rest of the squad. For the same reason, it may be well into the new season before a Tiger quintet without Bradley achieves the potential that appears to await it even without a superstar.

In addition to the loss of the three-time All-American, the schedule will work against the Tigers in 1966: the final three games which meant so much last winter (against Columbia, Cornell and Penn) will all be played on the road.

Off the loss of Bradley and the unusual holdover strength at Cornell and Penn, it is logical to expect Princeton's stranglehold on Ivy League championships will be broken next winter. There is, however, a major store of basketball potential in Dillon Gym, and no reason to expect that the flow will dwindle in the years ahead. Chances are that Butch van Breda Kolff will be too busy coaching to be able to spend much time singing, "Bill Bradley, Won't You Please Come Home."

JACK LACKEY SIGNS

With Yankees. Jack Lackey, former star pitcher for Princeton High School and later for Rider College, has signed a contract with the New York Yankees.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lackey of 222 North Harrison Street, he graduated from Rider last spring and then entered the Army for a six months tour of duty. Stationed at nearby Fort Dix, he was released two weeks ago. He left immediately for the Yankees' training camp in Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Lackey was signed by Yankee scout Frank O'Rourke. The 22-

TWO PLAYERS, SEVEN YEARS' EXPERIENCE: Paul Walstad (left) four-year veteran of the Princeton High baseball squad, and Ken Ward, returning for the third year and 1965 team captain, head seven returning lettermen. Coach Harry Zoll's Little Tigers will open Friday, weather permitting.

year-old southpaw reportedly received a "small bonus."

As a Little Tiger, Lackey won over 20 games in four seasons for coach Harry Zoll. In 1960, he led PHS to the Central Jersey Group 3 championship.

Lackey won all three games in the playoffs. He one-hit North Hunterdon Regional for an 8-0 shutout; struck out 14 in a 2-1, 10-inning triumph over Sayreville, and then fanned 16 while yielding only four hits in the championship title with South River, a 4-3 victory again in 10 innings.

PHS NINE OPENS FRIDAY

At Home Against Cathedral. Four days before his team's scheduled opener with Cathedral, the question uppermost in Princeton High coach Harry Zoll's mind is not who's going to play where but is PHS going to play at all?

What has set Harry's mind a-wondering has been a cold and rainy spring. "We haven't been able to practice on the infield even once," lamented Zoll. "There's nothing like a couple of dry days. So we wait and hope."

If the PHS diamond has dried out sufficiently, The Little Tigers will open the 1965 season Friday at 4 against Cathedral. The game will be played on the Harris Field diamond. The second contest of a 19-game schedule will take place Tuesday at 4 when Ewing checks in at Harris Field.

In the opener, Zoll reported he looks for a pitcher's duel. "The pitchers usually are ahead of the others at this time of year," he continued, "because they have had a chance to work out in the gym. Where can the others go and hit in this weather.

On the mound, Zoll sees a tandem performance for PHS. He predicted that both Chris Fischer, a lefthander, and Joe Harding, a righthander, would see action.

Fischer, the more experienced of the two, will probably start. Harding, a transfer student, has come along very well, according to Zoll.

Elsewhere, the none too potent Little Tiger mound staff received a setback with the announcement that Howard Rifkin, the only other hurler with experience, will be lost to the team for about a month. Rifkin, a senior, was involved in an auto accident.

Can't List Starters Because of the weather's playing hob with so many practice sessions, Zoll reported that it was impossible for him to name any starting lineup for Friday's encounter. "It wouldn't be fair for me to fill in the positions with names, because I want every player to feel he has a chance. Actually, I don't know myself who is going to play."

Nevertheless, a few spots seem to be nailed down. Paul Barrett, a veteran, will catch; Ken Ward, team captain, will start at second for the third consecutive season; Bill McQuade will open at third and Paul Walstad will occupy one of the outfield positions.

For shortshop, Bill Bartolino, a wingback on the football team, and Curt Schaeffer, a tranfer student, are battling each other for a starting role. Ed Hull and Curt Mitchell appear to be likely outfield candidates.

To shore up his attenuated pitching staff, Zoll said that he is trying to utilize the strong throwing arm of Lou Balestrieri. Lou, who played catcher, third base and outfield last year, lacks the control to become a front-line hurler. "If he can learn that he could help us a lot," said Zoll.

PHS LACROSSE TO OPEN

Saturday at Maplewood. A Princeton High School lacrosse club that absorbed a 13 to 2 shellacking by Maplewood last year will open its season Saturday against another powerful Maplewood squad. Champions of the state in 1964, the Green and White of Maplewood lost only two by graduation.

PHS lacks experience—it is starting its third year of competition in the sport—but under the guidance of coach Bob Arhegast, it has developed rapidly. This year, the Blue and White hopes to give a much better account of itself before the home town Maplewood onlookers.

Defense is the Little Tiger weak spot, and Arbegast is playing a chess game with Pete Bol, Craig Donaldson, Brandon Stecchini, Bill Wakefield, Dennis O'Kane, Bob Rodgers, Dave Nichols George Markuson and Jim Floyd to arrive at the best combination. Those, most likely to start at Maplewood are Markuson, Nichols and either Bol or Floyd.

On attack, the Blue and White will go with Bob Chenicek, Brian McCarthy and Carl Burns. Less set is the midfield, but the probable starters here will be Dave Van Ness, Rich Stewart and George Alexander. Albert Tyson, Jack MacConnell, Carl Stange and Bruce Johnson are vying for the three positions on the second midfield.

Next Wednesday, at 3:45, at the Community Park field, the stickmen will engage the PHS alumni. Pete Smith of Hobart College will captain the alumni squad.

Other former players include Bruce Baxter of Colgate, Dave Hamilton of Princeton University, Jeff Tillet of Wesleyan, Mike Hawk of Rutgers, Jim Boynton of Williams and Sam Stewart of North Carolina. Alumni now attending prep schools are Pete Kline, Deerfield; Bruce Van Ness, Proctor; Bill Gaman, Christ Church; and Marc Soldivan, Hun.

PHS VS. EWING

In Opening Track Meet. Just eight days after the start of the 1965 track season, Coach Jerry Groninger's Princeton High school track team will have participated in four dual meets, three of them against top flight squads.

"That's pretty heavy," said Groninger. "At this rate, the team will be shaken down fast. If we break even, we'll be doing well."

Groninger is now starting his fourth year as head coach. In his short tenure, he has brought the sport a long way at Princeton, culminating in last year's fine 9-3 dual meet record.

"It will be difficult to equal last year's record," continued Groninger. "We have average ability and we should hold our own in Mercer County but the biggest meets against schools like New Brunswick and Highland Park will be very difficult."

The Little Tigers get off to their furious start on Wednesday opposite Ewing. Two days later, Steinert will provide the competition to be followed by Cathedral on Monday and New Brunswick the following Wednesday, April 14. All four meets will be held at Princeton High's Harris Field, the first two starting at 4, the latter two at 3:45. A jayvee meet will run concurrently with each, which means, according to Groninger, that between 50 and 60 boys will be competing in each contest.

PHS will face its moment of truth in its first meet, Ewing, which Groninger rates as the toughest in Mercer County, upended PHS last spring, 66-51. New Brunswick, a perennial track power, and perennial victor over the Little Tigers, outscored them by more than 50 points last year. (The only other school to take the measure of PHS in 1964 was Somerville.) Although he admitted that his team is starting out by having to face two of the toughest teams on the schedule, Groninger said that "anything can happen" this early in the season.

This season, visitors to Harris Field will find newly-installed macadam approaches to the pole vault, broad jump and high jump. "These new runways will mean better safety and increased speed," said Groninger.

How will the Little Tigers, who lost through graduation such standouts as Art Brooks, Bob Peyton, Steve Feldman and Jim McKeever, fare this year? According to Groninger they will be strongest in the shot, discus and mile, but weaker in the quarter-mile. In many of the events, it is a little too early to tell, he said.

HE WEARS FOUR HATS: Vince Boccanfuso, junior track standout for PHS, will compete this spring in the 100 and 220 sprints and in the high jump and broad jump events. Vince was named the outstanding field performer in the Mercer County Indoor Track Meet held in February at Lawrenceville.

New Shot Record? In the shot, PHS has two performers in Andy Kulley, captain of the field events, and Carl DeCavalcante. "Either one or both could set a record in the shot this year," Groninger commented. In addition, the coach reported he had about ten others with "a lot of potential" competing in the shot.

It's the same story in the discus; Kulley and DeCavalcante backed up by Tom Fasanella and Tony Arcaro and a host of others. Arcaro is a former 6-0, 205-pound lineman who was so strong that he doubled on occasion as a running fullback.

The outstanding miler is Jay Gallagher who, for three years, has run in the shadow of others. This is the year that Jay should come into his own. "Gallagher may set a record in the mile," said Groninger, "but in Group 4 competition, even at 4:30 it will be difficult." Behind Gallagher is Roger Conant and Bruce McKinney. Conant has run the mile under 4.40.

The hurdles will be anchored again by Bill Aiken and Bart Bennett—two of the best in the area. Groninger calls Bennett one of the most improved runners on the team, based on his performances this winter. A third hurdler is Dave Lloyd.

Among the top sprinters for the Blue and White are Vince Boccanfuso, Larry Mueller and Bill Cirullo. Quarter-milers are Bill Gary, Robert Goodale, Ed Huntress and Dave Moomall who earned recognition as a freshman sprinter last spring.

Carl Giese, a veteran half-miler, returns and he will be aided by Bill Lawder and Peter Michaels. The javelin finds the return of letterman Craig Beachell plus Tom Fasanella anud Mark Dannenhauer. Dannenhauer is up from the jayvees.

Roger Maddeu, an outstanding broad jumper, should carry PHS to a first place in that event. Boccanfuso will add strength, and Groninger reports a number of others show promise in the broad jump. Boccanfuso and Bennett lead a contingent of high jumpers, while returning lettermen Jerry Lydon and Aiken head the pole vaulters.

Again this year Groninger is being assisted by Dick Wood, who handles the jumpers and hurdlers, and by Tom Murray who teaches the sprinters, the quarter-milers and the freshmen. Groninger handles all weight events, the milers and half-milers.

The YMCA has also set up a similar league for 9 year olds. The first class will be held at Princeton High School from 1 to 3 on Saturday, April 24. Registration must be made at the "Y" office on Avalon Place.

TENNIS WORKSHOP SET

For Junior Leaders. The fourth and final Tennis Teachers' Workshop will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. this Monday at the YW-YMCA. John Conroy, Princeton University tennis coach, and Dan Haggerty, supervisor of tennis in Trenton, are co-chairmen.

Emphasis will be placed on the training of junior leaders and student assistants who will take jobs helping in tennis programs. Individual stroke evaluations in a large group class will also be discussed. Young people who will be working as tennis assistants are required to attend the workshop. Interested individuals are welcome. The session is free.

Further information may be obtained from Mrs. Stella Jascott at the Mercer County Park Commission, 392-1089. The Mercer County Citizens' Tennis Advisory Committee has sponsored the workshop series.

BOWLING NOTES

Bear Brook Widens Lead. Moving away from the pack, Bear Brook Tavern increased its lead in the Nassau League last week by raising its number of victories to 48 points. Grover Lumber is the runner-up with 41, followed by the reformers, 40; Thorne's 39; Elks, 33; and Nassau Del, 36.

Bob Sculerati was high man with 221, while Joe Tunning had a 210 game and Joe Baldino a pair of 204's. Leo Maiorini also was credited with 204; Andy Drummond, 203; Don Lovering and Nick Scuderati, both 202; and Witt Rose, 200.

Jim Kahny equalled Mike Koplinor's feat, recorded last week, when he missed a perfect game by one strike, achieving a 278 game. He added scores of 181 and 191 for a fine 650 series in B League competition.

Bill Penelli had a 604 series, including games of 215 and 210, while Joe Tufano's 600 series was highlighted by a 252 game. Other noteworthy scores: Mike Pinelli, 224; Bill Voorhees, 221; John Baldino, 214; Fred Procaccini and Bill Dumble, both 209.

Pete & Mike's tops the standings with 50 victories, followed by Smith Bindery with 42 and Central Paper, 36. Others: Balestrieri, 34; Jugtown Del, Key Shop and Renwick's, all 32.

Papp's Pro Shop maintained its first-place margin in the Three-Man Classic with 51 points, to 45½ for PRC and 44½ for Turney Motors. Johnson Electric is fourth with 40, trailed by Hightstown Trust (33) and Lahey's (32).

Bud Cavanaugh bowled a 604 series, with a high game of 223. Larry Golden's top effort was 206, while Joe Baldino had a 204 to his credit.

Tie in Firemen's League. Mercer Engine and Dutch Neck are deadlocked with 40 points apiece in the Tri-County Firemen's League, with Kingston close behind at 38. Lawrenceville is fourth with 35, followed by Hook & Ladder "L," 33; Princeton Junction, 28; KFD, 27; Hook & Ladder "H" and Rocky Hill, 26 each.

Top game among the firemen was rolled by Wally Brown, who posted a 221. Harry Kahny had a 205, while Vern Roszel was credited with 204, Tom Johnson, 202; Les Luck and Dave Wilbur both 201.

In the Business Woman's League, Irene's Day Nursery and Jefferson Plumbing have 30 points, closely followed by Smith Bindery with 29. Claridge, Manni and Nassau-Conover all have 26, while Thorne's and Maul Electric are tied with 24 and Decker's Dairy has 23.

Lillian Burrough's 191 was the top game for the ladies, while Helen Tamasi posted a 182-181-154--517 series. Other high games were Janet Groover, 176; Carole Harris, 174; Gail Echevarria, 172.

The Tigers are in first place in the YMCA Blue Angels League with 22 points, followed by the Wildcats with 20, the Sharks, 18, and Triple C, 12. Curt Mitchell and Harry Cahn both bowled 169's, while Ken Grob had a game of 160.

YOUNGEST SWIMMERS WIN

In Central Atlantic Championships: The youngest swimmers of the YMCA Flying Fish team, the only members of the boy's team to reach the finals in the Central Atlantic Area Championships won four events and placed third in another.

Chuck Hector won gold medal in the 8 and under 25-yard breaststroke, and Bill Cook won the 25-yard butterfly and placed third in the freestyle. The relay team composed of Hector, Cook, Tim Valentine and Steve Baxter, also placed first in the freestyle relay event.

Swimmers competed from New Jersey, Maryland, Delaware and the District of Columbia. The girls team will compete this Saturday at the Somerset Valley YMCA.

CAPE COD . . . always synonymous with compactness and real comfort, a Yankee home of this design also promises genuine value because no space is wasted. 3 bedrooms, 1½ baths — with the master bedroom & bath on the first floor, which is very pleasant for a retired couple whose grandchildren visit rather often, or for the family with two grown-up children. $24,500

IN THE BOROUGH . . . here is a nice, cheerful 2-story home of excellent construction, and well laid-out indoors for comfortable family living. 3 bedrooms, 1 bath. Separate dining room . . . a very well-maintained property with a back yard full of flowering fruit trees and flourishing shrubs. In a well-established neighborhood where the children are likely to find many new friends. $28,000

RIVERSIDE . . . only three years old, this beautiful home among the lofty shade trees of one of Princeton's nicest wooded neighborhoods is an excellent example of good planning and good taste. Foyer, living room with fireplace, powder room, a very pleasant family room and a modern kitchen with breakfast area. Upstairs: 3 bedrooms, 2 baths. However, this is a home with plenty of closet space, with many nice little details of construction which mark the custom built home, and with every evidence of the meticulous maintenance which its owners have provided. $53,000

RENTAL . . . furnished. On a country road near Lawrenceville. 3 bedrooms, 2 baths. Study and separate dining room. Completely air-conditioned. $300

SUNNY & CHEERFUL . . . this is a home which must be seen during the afternoon, for every room seems to get almost more than its full quota of sunshine — and that can make life a great deal pleasanter hereabouts. Living room with fireplace, a comfortable family room downstairs, beautiful kitchen, 4 bedrooms, 2 tiled baths. Just outside the Township, on a quiet country road. $36,250

BOROUGH . . . and just a short stroll from the University and the center of town. If you are looking for a big old house, with living room, study, dining room, 4 bedrooms and bath, and 3 more rooms on the third floor where the children can enjoy their hobbies (or he can set up his studio — far away from it all), this substantial old home may be exactly what you want. Kitchen needs modernizing, but this property is worth improving. $45,000

WESTERN SECTION . . . a fine residence in one of Princeton's most desirable neighborhoods. This very substantial home offers almost everything, perhaps, that the most careful homeseeker is interested in — an excellent location, fine construction, and outdoors (in back), the sort of garden that people who enjoy good living in the country can be proud of. First floor: hall, large living-dining areas, with fireplace, library, guest room and bath, kitchen and pantry. Second floor: master suite with bath and sun deck, and 3 other bedrooms, 1 bath. 2-car garage. Covered terrace. $75,000

Many fine homes in Princeton and vicinity in every price range.

ELECTRIC LIVING GUIDE

All rights reserved, © 1965 Business & Co., Inc., New York.

"OLDEST HOUSE" IS MOST MODERN

Newly Converted To Electric Heat

"It had been our show place, small as it was, ever since I can remember.

"Why when I was a boy I used to walk by, look at the slightly skewed black shutters against the white paint and say over and over 'it's over a hundred years old!'

"As a boy it was the age that impressed me, a hundred years sounded like the dawn of time.

"Now I'm impressed again . . . because it's started a new trend around here . . . a couple of years back it became the first old house to convert to total electric heat.

"Why am I impressed? Well I'm in the electrical heating business, have been for four years . . . but my initial work was all on new construction and that includes my own house.

"You see the newest owners, as they told me later, love what they call 'the aura' of the old house as well as its lines . . . but they weren't about to do without the comforts.

"Seems when they brought their own appraiser they'd instructed him to judge its suitability for conversion before they signed anything or paid anything. They'd stayed at a motel, they explained, where the instant warmth of electric baseboards wiped out all awareness of the bleak windy weather outside. They knew what they wanted for their own home . . . the newest and the best in heating systems.

"They also knew something else . . . that the installation itself is quite easy, but the structure should be snug. Matter of fact, the new insulation proved a pretty easy matter in its own way. And the result? Of course it's a house as liveable as it is lovable to look at."

NO NOISE

Electric heating is absolutely silent reports the Edison Electric Institute.

QUESTION BOX

Q. Does the figure of nearly two million buildings heated by electricity, mentioned in a recent article, include any hospitals?

A. Many communities do have electric heating in hospitals but we do not have exact figures at hand. However, these would not be reflected in "the figure of nearly two million" you mention. That estimation applies strictly to electrically heated homes in the United States. Hospitals would come under the designation of "commercial and industrial buildings." At the beginning of 1964, that total was 162,000.

Q. Why would a contractor recommend individual thermostats in every room with an electric heating system instead of the three-zone arrangement?

A. You could have the three-zone if you like! But with an electric heating system you can have the greater precision since there is no expensive pipe and duct work involved and since heat is delivered right to the area of use. "Comfort" is the "most-wanted" quality listed on a recent questionnaire. And "comfort" beyond the capacity of old fashioned heating systems is what electric heating with individual thermostats room-by-room delivers.

Q. Where in the room should a thermostat be placed?

A. At a suitable distance from the heating element itself, naturally, and not where it would be in strong sunlight. In other words, you do what the weather bureau does, place it where the natural temperature prevails.

Q. Is there any one climate for which electric heating is suited more than another?

A. No. Electric heating provides the great possible indoor comfort in the cold belt of the Northern United States; it is also very popular in southerly areas where heat is needed only occasionally. Local contractors know their areas and have specific standards for suitable equipment and mathematically precise recommendations for insulation graded according to climate requirements. In other words, just as one would build a basically sturdier house in a cold climate, so would one plan on greater insulation.

Q. Where do I find out what it would cost to have electrical heat?

A. Consult an experienced contractor or your utility company. In addition to telling you what you'll spend, there are some nice surprises in what you'll save. (Few or no maintenance costs, 100% utilization of fuel).
